BUSINESS IS PERTURBED BY RATE POLICY

But Only Because Reserve Board's Stand Results in Uncertainty

PLANNING IS DIFFICULT

Pittsburgh Area Is Prosperous but Financiers Are Slightly Worried

(David Lawrence is writing from Pittsburgh, where he has interviewed some of the biggest men in American business as well as the banking world. Most of these men prefer not to be quoted directly but the composite of their views gives an interesting glimpse of what is going on behind the scenes in the world of commerce and trade.)

Pittsburgh—If the federal reserve policy with its attendant high money rates has had an effect on business in this area, it is rather an apprehension than a reality.

Steel was never better and the volume of business is so great that those who might be expected to feel the pinch of higher rates in financing commerce are evidently able to stand the additional expense or they consider it temporary. There is no atmosphere of depression or gloom. But this does not mean that the federal reserve policy goes unscathed. On the contrary, the central point of criticism most often voiced is that an air of uncertainty, so fatal to planning, has enveloped the money situation to such an extent that companies that should be seeking new financing are held back. Most of the larger corporations never were in a better cash position and are themselves able to lend on the money markets of New York, though only a few are doing it.

The banks which originally solicited the privilege of placing money on call for large customers now look askance at the sudden appearance of these big corporations really as rival banking institutions. During May, for example, the average rate for call money in New York was about eight and seven-tenths per cent, which was much higher than

Small Loans Law Scored By Official

Huber Urges Senate to Pass Bill to Repeal Wisconsin Statute

Madison—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber today turned the full force of a vigorous oratorical attack upon the uniform small loans law, and urged the upper house to pass Senator P. J. Smith's bill which would repeal the act.

"The small loans law cannot be called anything but a loan shark law," he said. "and there is no justification for keeping it on the books. People in desperate financial circumstances should not be 'soaked' 42 per cent interest a year."

Huber denounced as "cowardly" the action of former Governor Zimmerman in allowing the bill to become a law without his signature after its passage in 1927.

"You senators think you know how this loan shark law got on the statute books, but I doubt if the truth of the efforts that culminated in its passage will ever be known to you," the lieutenant governor declared. "I am not questioning the honor of any member of the 1927 session. I am only saying that in all my legislative experience, I never heard such sinister whispering about the methods by which a bill was passed."

"Something was wrong somewhere. Sometime I hope someone will reveal the intricacies of the job by which this measure on the federal reserve's desk."

Huber charged that a report made recently by social welfare agencies in support of the law was financed by a national organization of "loan sharks." He also charged Aubrey Williams, Madison, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, has continually changed his stand on the law.

13 FRENCH SOLDIERS KILLED IN AMBUSH

Large Party of Moors Fires on Several Companies in Morocco

Rabat, Morocco—(AP)—Thirteen French soldiers were killed and 10 wounded, including two officers, in an ambush of French native troops by dissident tribesmen at the foot of the Atlas mountains.

The fate of 15 Frenchmen and 65 native auxiliaries who were caught in the ambush and unable to fall back with the rest of the French force to the base at Ait Yakoub was unknown. Reinforcements have been dispatched to the area with retributive measures not unlikely.

Due to the distance and bad weather only a fragmentary account of the ambush has reached here but it appeared a large party of Moors lay in wait for two companies of Senegalese troops and a company of a Moroccan cadet corps while they were on a reconnoitering expedition. After a sharp combat the Moors were repulsed, losing some dead and wounded. They, however, peppered the retreating Frenchmen with rifle fire as they fell back to Ait Yakoub.

General Vidalon, commander-in-chief of French armies in Morocco, and Lucien Saint, resident general, left Rabat yesterday for the scene of the conflict. It was said General Vidalon particularly would demand an explanation of why reconnaissance was attempted in that area, contrary to express orders of the resident general.

It was understood the situation did not inspire any special anxiety.

FIND CARD INDEX OF MADISON BOOZE BUYERS

Madison—(AP)—A quantity of alcohol and gin, and a card index which federal prohibition officers said contained a list of prominent Madison men who were listed as "O. K." for liquor sales were seized by six agents in a raid on the Park Hotel Pharmacy here Tuesday.

The proprietor, Andrew B. Holstrom, and two clerks, William K. Mills and Allan G. Meenck, were arrested and today were released under $1000 bonds each after arraignment on federal dry law violation charges by Chauncey E. Blake, U. S. court commissioner here.

The drugstore is situated in the Park hotel, one of the leading Madison hostilities. Agents said they had been making purchases for six months.

Preliminary hearing dates were set tentatively for June 25.

WOMAN'S BILL SETS $25,000 AS AMOUNT DUE

Patrolmen to Be Held Responsible if They Shot Without Cause

DETROIT—(AP)—Archibald Eugster, 21, shot by Johan Cox, a customs border patrol inspector early Tuesday, died shortly before noon today.

Washington—(AP)—Johan Cox, customs border patrol inspector, who early yesterday shot Archibald Eugster, 21, declared today in a statement to investigators that two of the youth's companions were members of the crew of a rum runner's boat he was guarding.

Victim at Capital "Taken for Ride" in Typical Gangster Style

Washington—(AP)—Representative Florence P. Kahn Republican, California, introduced a bill today in the house to authorize payment of $25,000 to dependents of persons killed by prohibition agents.

Payment would be made to dependents of any persons "wantonly or negligently killed by any prohibition officer unless such prohibition officer was acting in self defense."

Mrs. Kahn's action was the last development growing out of the Virkkola killing at International Falls, Minn. A government agent was accused of shooting Henry Virkkola in his efforts to enforce the prohibition law.

Representative Shaffer, Republican, Wisconsin, previously had introduced a bill to authorize the payment of $25,000 to Virkkola's widow, and Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, had requested the attorney general to investigate the shooting of Archibald Eugster on the Detroit river Monday by federal agents.

Mrs. Kahn said she had requested the prohibition bureau to prepare for her a list of all persons that have been killed by prohibition officers together with a description of the circumstances surrounding each fatality. She intends to insert in the congressional record for the purpose, she said, of avoiding charges of exaggeration.

She expects her measure to be referred to the committee on claims and said she would press it for action at the regular session of congress in December.

MUST FOLLOW RULES

Washington—(AP)—The two border patrolmen at Detroit and International Falls, Minn., will be held personally responsible for use of firearms if the treasury investigation should disclose weapons were used except in self-defense or to prevent commission of a felony.

Lowman also said vigorous denials were being made on the treasury by members of congress to disarm agents. These, he declared, could not be approved.

To disarm agents, Lowman continued, would do away with their effectiveness since desperate law violators, especially smugglers depended upon weapons to bring success to their ventures. With law violators ready to open fire, if necessary, he said, it would be impossible to employ men to enforce the laws unless they were armed.

Lowman already has put in motion an investigation of the Detroit and International Falls shootings. These were started yesterday about the time the shootings were being

FORMER DRY OFFICER MURDERED IN HIS CAR

Huntsville, Ala.—(AP)—R. E. Craft, 55, former federal prohibition officer and deputy sheriff of Madison, was ambushed 17 miles from here early today. The player used a shotgun, the full load striking Craft in the head as he drove through a thickly wooded spot in his automobile.

A young woman walking the roadway found Craft's body slumped over the steering wheel.

Craft retired from office as a prohibition enforcement officer and deputy sheriff several weeks ago and since had been operating a farm near Gurley. He served as a deputy stationed at Gurley.

While serving as a prohibition officer Craft was active against moonshiners and incurred the enmity of numerous persons.

Craft was chief of police at Gurley before assuming his duties as a county and federal officer. Two children and a widow survive.

Portage—(AP)—A chicken coop, which was blown down and fell on him during the storm Tuesday, resulted in the death of Fred Jacobson, 50, farmer, living south of Rio.

Three Clubs Are Raided In Illinois Dog Race Racket

Chicago—(AP)—Three raids which the state attorney's office today described as "a smashing blow at the dog racing racket," were executed simultaneously last night at tracks reputedly operated by the Al Capone, George (Bugs) Moran and Chicago Heights "syndicates."

More than 100 persons were arrested, and among articles confiscated were three machine guns. All those arrested were employees or track officials.

The places raided were the Hawthorne Kennel club, ownership of which often has been ascribed to Al Capone, now in a Philadelphia jail for gun toting; the Fairview club, which police say is operated by George Moran's northside gang; and the Illinois Kennel club, reputed to be in control of Homer Ellis, a brother of Oliver Ellis, recently indicted in the slot machine scandal.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, said the raids had "stopped the racket for good."

"We'll raid them every night if we have to," he said, "and since we are striking at the main source of revenue for the big gangs, it follows that they will soon be starved out of existence. We've cut off an income of $150,000 a year—and they can't stand it."

Rain kept attendance down last night. Ordinarily between 3,000 and 10,000 persons may be found at each track, Roche said.

BORAH TAKES STAND AGAINST GENERAL TARIFF REVISION

Washington—(AP)—Immediate adjournment of congress, since die was advocated in the senate today by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, "if a general revision of the tariff is contemplated."

Borah made this announcement after Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressed the view that general revision was "inevitable." The Idahoan demanded that the tariff be restricted to farm schedules.

"It is perfectly apparent that there is to be general tariff revision," declared Borah, "and there is no prospect of concluding that before the regular session in December."

"That is true," replied Watson.

"Then I am ready to vote to adjourn this congress at once," Borah shot back.

RACINE MAN HELD FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Racine—(AP)—Police today held Mike Tony, 40, on a first degree murder charge following the death of John Kaplan, 36, at St. Mary's hospital here this morning. Jack Mike, 31, owner of a rooming house at which Tony lived, is being held as a material witness.

According to the story told police, Kaplan, in a drunken stupor, wandered into Mike's rooming house and went upstairs to Tony's room. When Tony came home he found the man in his room and proceeded to evict him. Kaplan was thrown down a flight of stairs and then heaved from the porch to a lawn. Tony is alleged to have gone to Kaplan's body lay on the lawn and kicked and stomped him with the heel of his shoe.

PLANE IS REPAIRED AFTER TRIAL FLIGHT

Reykjavik, Iceland—(AP)—The cooler was taken from the engine of the Swedish transatlantic airplane Sverdrup after her return from a trial flight this morning. Mechanics brought it ashore, saying that it was possible to repair the cooler here and that they could finish the repairs today. Captain Albin Ahrenberg was informed, however, that the weather outlook toward Greenland was unfavorable.

TWO ROBBER SUSPECTS ACQUITTED IN COURT

Milwaukee—(AP)—Charged with assault and robbery, Joseph Robertson, 25, and Joseph Canfield, both of Kansas City were acquitted in municipal court late yesterday. They were arrested in Racine, June 1, after two Milwaukeeans identified them as the pair that had robbed them. Three police officers testified that the men admitted the robbery. The jury deliberated three hours.

Power Firm Gave No Aid In Buying Papers, Claim

Washington—(AP)—The International Paper and Power company was declared by Archibald R. Gray, its president, in a letter placed today in the record of the Federal Trade commission, to have rendered no financial assistance to the International Paper company in the past ten years in various sections of the country.

The letter of Gray, which was written June 1 in reply to a communication of Robert E. Healy, chief counsel, was among a number of exhibits placed in the record at today's session, before no witnesses appeared.

Another exhibit was a letter from C. G. Abbot, director of the Smithsonian Institution, in which he said only 15 of the 1,147 publications of the institution during the past ten years "have been paid for by outside parties." Dr. Abbot's letter was in reply to testimony of S. S. Weaver, Columbus, Ohio, consultant, who said he had declared that most of the Smithsonian's publications were financed by outside interests, as he described as "economic Santa Claus."

SOLONS ASK STATE VOTE ON UTILITIES

Resolution of Ownership of Power Passed by Assembly by 71 to 19 Vote

Madison—(AP)—A resolution seeking amendment of the constitution to let Wisconsin enter the electric power business was passed by the assembly today, 71 to 19. It was introduced by Alvin Reis, Madison, Progressive floor leader. It was sent directly to the senate to prevent its reconsideration in the lower house. It must be passed by the senate, then by one more legislature, and finally voted upon by the people before it becomes effective.

The surprisingly large favorable vote was three repeated. First the assembly voted 70 to 20 to refuse to reject a substitute, strengthening the resolution. Then the substitute was adopted viva voce and the resolution ordered engrossed, 71 to 19. The rules were suspended on motion of Assemblyman Loomis, Maunston, and the final passage vote came.

Adoption followed addresses of a triangular coalition of Conservatives and Progressives. Reis made the longest argument for his resolution. He said, "The people of this state have voted 6 to 4 in favor of the resolution, was one of the dissenters."

Ingalls is opponent.

Wallace Ingalls, Racine, was the other chief opponent of the bill. Then Speaker Charles B. Perry, former Conservative candidate for governor, who has joined the Progressive whip in several successful battles, favored the resolution and was joined by M. B. Goff, Surgeon Bay Conservative who has recently attached himself to the Perry-Reis coalition. Assemblyman Budlong, Marinette, was the only other speaking opponent of the state power amendment proposal in the two-hour discussion.

Those who voted in favor of the resolution were: Assemblymen Barker, Barber, Beck, Becker, Brunette, Burnham, Crows, Chmurski, Conway, Cords, Elble, Elmhacker, Frank, Furman, Gagner, Gehert, Gilbertson, Goff, Grandine, Grochschmidt, Hall, C. E. Hanson, J. C. Hanson, Hilker, Hitt, Hoesley, Hurstead, Hunter, Husband, Jackson, Kamper, Kegren, Keller, Kluz, Kryszak, Larson, Loomis, Lohrleit, McDowell, Malchow, Manline, Mentink, Michalski, Miller, Nelson, Nixon, Paul, Pennington, Pinn, Prescott, Przybylski, Reis, Riedinger, Rohan, Rowlands, Saugen, Schauer, Schaefer, Schimke, Slag, Slater, E. C. Smith, Springer, Stephen, Sullivan, Thayer, Wenz, Wolter, Perry—71.

Those who voted against the resolution: Assemblymen Ashley, Barnard, Budlong, Davies, Dewey, Eber, Edwards, Engel, Huber, Ingalls, Janek, Kleker, Labar, Lacy, Laffey, Meyer, O'Connor, Phalen, Schoenbeck—19.

Paired: Miller for the resolution with Lamoureux against.

Absent or not voting: Bingham, Luntin, Dilling, Eastman, Langve, Marti, Moul, D. V. Smith.

NORRIS WANTS PROBE IN 1926 RAIL ACTION

Washington—(AP)—Investigation of federal court proceedings by which the Chicago Railway company was placed in the hands of receivers in 1926 was asked in a resolution today by chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee.

The resolution, Norris said, was brought by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for a bill of $47,015 for materials. The railway consented, and three receivers were appointed.

The investigation would be made by the senate judiciary committee and would seek to determine whether the receivers were "competent" and whether there was evidence of "collusion" between the receivers and the railway.

"It is claimed," Norris declared, "that the receivers and the railway conspired to defraud the public and the shareholders of the railway and the public interest and was done for the purpose of giving the court jurisdiction in a later case."

MOVE FAILS TO TAKE BILL FROM GOVERNOR

Madison—(AP)—A move to withdraw from the consideration of Governor Kohler the bill calling for a dollar fishing license for all resident fishermen met its first defeat in the assembly today. The resolution by Frank Prescott, Milwaukee, rejecting the bill and introducing, instead, for the purpose of amending the bill to exempt fishermen on the waters of Lake Michigan, was refused suspension of the rules for immediate consideration. The vote against this move was 34 to 34.

100,000 To Be Employed On Census Jobs

Statistics to Be Announced in Each District as They Are Gathered

Washington—(AP)—Population statistics of the 1930 decennial census will be announced publicly in each of 500 districts immediately after they are gathered, instead of being tabulated first in Washington.

William M. Stewart, director of the census, explains that his procedure would be followed for the first time with the forthcoming census, in order that inaccuracies may be detected before the figures are tabulated for the permanent record.

At least 100,000 enumerators will be needed to canvass the nation's homes for the census, he said, and between 6,000 and 8,000 more will be employed here later.

Selection of women for the jobs of enumerators is favored by the directors because they usually have a plentiful endowment of tact and are faithful in attending to details.

"Women have been employed in the work for census of the past," he said, "and with great success."

"That is especially necessary in gathering personal, confidential facts for the census."

Though applications for positions as enumerators will be filed with the bureau here, supervisors in the 500 districts into which the country will be divided, will be responsible for organization of the staff. The plan is to employ one enumerator for each 2,000 estimated population.

"Publication of the figures in the districts," Director Stewart expects, "will also enable me to carry out the provision of the law of a penalty on deliberate inaccuracy. The supervisor will not be paid for the work in his district until after results of his staff have been published and opened to public comment."

On the basis of estimates of an average 10 per cent increase in population of the country, it is believed that about 125,000,000 individuals must be listed for the new census.

YOUTH FINED $1,000 IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Following his plea of guilty to fourth degree manslaughter in connection with the death of Sadie Lentz, Waubesa, Kingston P. Swallow, 19-year-old son of a wealthy Milwaukee family, was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two years, in municipal court here today. During the probation period Swallow will not be permitted to drive an automobile or "drink intoxicating liquor."

BELGIUM, GERMANY GO EASY ON MARKS ISSUE

Brussels—(AP)—Great discretion is being observed in Belgian and German quarters here regarding tomorrow's opening negotiations on the German mark settlement which were preceded by an exchange of diplomatic views.

The Belgians have demanded 32 annuities of 25,000,000 marks each (about $6,000,000 a year) as payment for the German marks left in Belgium after the war and which subsequently became worthless.

In agreeing to sign the recent reparations settlement, the Belgians made the stipulation that the settlement would not go into effect until the marks problem was finally arranged.

In order to avoid any indirect or harmful interference, both the Germans and Belgians have agreed to issue no communiqué until a final conclusion is reached.

FAVORS MOVE IF DEBENTURE IS ELIMINATED

"Time Has Come to Organize for Fight to Finish," Iowan Declares

BILL BACK IN HOUSE

Congressmen Expect to Vote Tomorrow on Measure Returned by Senate

Washington—(AP)—Selection of a "progressive" candidate for president and the elimination of an active progressive party was advocated in the senate today by Smith W. Barkhart, of Iowa, who stumped the west for Herbert Hoover, unless the export debenture proposition was approved by the administration as either a part of the pending farm relief or tariff bills.

The suggestion that the debenture plan ultimately might be attached to the tariff measure has been advanced by a number of other senators and it is known to have considerable sympathy among house democratic leaders.

The Iowan declared that he never desired to say to "progressive members of the senate on both sides," that if the proposition was rejected the time has come to organize for a fight to the finish.

"If the debenture," he added, "in the form I have here suggested, or in its present form, cannot be put into the farm bill, I think the bill should be permitted to pass without it."

VOTE IS 46 TO 13

The Iowan took the senate floor shortly after it convened at noon, and at about the time that the farm bill had formally been returned to the house as a result of the senate's refusal to approve the measure with the debenture eliminated. The representatives officially were advised that the senate had voted 46 to 13 to insist upon incorporation of the proposition. In the house the measure was placed on the speaker's table to await action, probably tomorrow.

Brookhart ripped into the administration for a second as the senate met and insisted the time had arrived for a fight to the finish on the debenture plan.

"In order to make sure that this be possible," he declared, "we should at once organize to put up a progressive candidate in every congressional district and for senators in every state, who will fight for this program, and if the bill should be vetoed, we should follow this with a progressive candidate for president."

Brookhart's suggestion of a third party was made after he had criticized the statement of President Hoover made public at the White House last night which described

THREE INDICTED FOR SLAYING OF HAGERTY

Detroit—(AP)—Ralph A. Wood, Herbert L. Sullivan and Cecil W. Holt were indicted today for the slaying of Ambrose Hagerty on Jan. 9 in front of Wood's real estate office in Wyandotte during an alleged conspiracy to kidnap and kill Wood. The indictment was returned by Circuit Judge Harry J. Dugan, who set as a one man grand jury an investigation which started June 8.

The conspiracy charge was made by Holt, who told police that Mr. George Wood, wife of Ralph Wood, had supplied a list of names to a group of men who had been organized to carry out the job. Wood was had been forewarned and who was to have his office as the scene of the plan, said Hagerty.

Mrs. Wood Thompson and Fierle were charged with assault with intent to kill and held under heavy bonds.

Capital Stirred By Prospect Of Premier's Visit

LITTLE DOUBT FELT THAT HE WILL ARRIVE

MacDonald May Be Guest of President at White House During Stay

London —(AP)—Progress in the formalities which must be observed before Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald can visit America to confer with President Hoover awaited arrival Friday of the new American ambassador, Charles G. Dawes.

It was known on the highest authority that the premier was making his plans to leave for America as soon as parliament has risen at the end of July. Departure at that time would leave MacDonald free for his projected visit in September to the league of nations assembly at Geneva.

Washington —(AP)—Official and diplomatic Washington has not been so stirred since the Washington conference over the prospect of an international event as it was today over the possible visit of British Prime Minister MacDonald to the United States.

Indications that Prime Minister MacDonald would be welcomed if he should come to Washington for a conference with President Hoover have been voiced in high administrative and legislative circles. While there appeared at first to be a feeling of uncertainty since no official confirmation of the reported proposed trip had been received from London, increasingly favorable reports from London that the visit was a certainty, today caused little doubt to be expressed that the prime minister would come.

Mr. MacDonald would be a guest during his stay in Washington at either the White House or the British embassy. It was considered likely, however, that he would be the guest of Sir Esme Howard, whose appointment as ambassador to Washington Mr. MacDonald's administration confirmed in 1924.

Although the proposed trip is looked upon as unprecedented insofar as Anglo-American relations are concerned, it was pointed out that since the war, conferences between European prime ministers and foreign ministers have been more and more frequent.

WAY IS PAVED

A conference between President Hoover and Mr. MacDonald, these same circles remarked, would be a logical continuation of the Anglo-American policy which was being formulated by the Baldwin government before it left office a few days ago. The then foreign minister, Sir Austen Chamberlain, had several times publicly announced he was consulting the dominions on the whole question of Anglo-American relations. It is known that among the matters which Sir Austen consulted the dominions upon was freedom of the seas, which together with naval problems would probably be the most important questions to be discussed at a conference here.

While there are many outstanding questions between the United States and Great Britain none but probably those of the utmost importance would receive the attention of the president and Mr. MacDonald. Nothing in the way of any "settlement" on any problem is expected to occur. It is considered more likely that Mr. MacDonald would take the results of the conference back to England with him to first discuss with his cabinet before an agreement on the major questions involved would be reached.

WELCOMED BY WOMEN

Elgin, Scotland —(AP)—Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's new Labor prime minister, was given an enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today.

So eager were his women constituents to do him honor that they attached ropes to the premier's car and pulled it to the Largsmouth railway station to the MacDonald home.

The premier and his daughter, Isabel, who will be his official hostess, found the hillocks of their Largsmouth home gaily decorated.

TWO DROWNED WHEN BOAT IS CAPSIZED

Storm Upsets Small Craft—Two Others Escape Near Door Peninsula

Sturgeon Bay —(AP)—Their small outboard motor boat overturned by a squall as they were crossing the passage between Rock Island and Washington Island at the top of the Door peninsula, Herbon Cance, 18, of Sevastopol, Mich., and James Berne, 21, of Escanaba, Mich., drowned Monday night. Their companions, Mike Mahaney and Howard Kethe, clung to the boat and a pond net stake, respectively, and were rescued. The men were almost across the mile wide passage when the skiff was upset. They were bound for Jackson harbor for an evening of entertainment and were employed at the estate of P. H. Thordarsen, Chicago, on Rock Island. The Thordarsen yacht was put out by other employees of the estate who saw the boat capsize. Cance clung to the boat for about 10 minutes but then weakened and slipped into the cold water. Berne disappeared a moment after the boat went over.

Plum Island coast guards were on the passages today searching for the bodies. An all day search Tuesday was fruitless. The coast guards expressed doubt that the bodies would be recovered before they come to the surface. The current in the passage is unusually strong, they said.

SCORED MICHIGAN'S FIRST TOUCHDOWN; NOW HE'S MARRIED

Chicago —(AP)—Irving K. Pond, who scored the first touchdown Michigan ever made in intercollegiate football and who since that time, back in the 70's, has won international reputation as an architect, said today he had been married since last Sunday.

"It's the first time I ever did it," he smiled, "and I think I ought to be pardoned because of my youth."

Pond is 22, but almost as well known for his present athletic accomplishments. A part of his daily routine is to turn hand springs and flippers and do other strenuous exercises.

Pond's bride was Miss Katherine de Nancré, 47, of Ann Arbor, Mich., where the ceremony took place.

KIP RHINELANDER SUES FOR DIVORCE

Attorney Says He's Ready to File Papers—Client Took Another Name

Las Vegas, Nev. —(AP)—Harley Harmon, attorney for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, disinherited son of a well-known New York family, disclosed early today that he has prepared a divorce complaint which young Rhinelander plans to file against Alice Jones Rhinelander, daughter of a New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro, within the next two weeks.

Harmon, who is district attorney here, said Rhinelander had lived in Las Vegas and at nearby mountain resorts since Jan. 1 under an assumed name. He had successfully hidden his identity by a moustache and a gain of 21 pounds in weight since coming to Nevada.

Rhinelander reluctantly admitted his true name when confronted with news service pictures of himself. He explained that he had sought to avoid publicity while establishing his six months residence in Nevada, which is required by law to file a divorce action in this state.

Under the name of Lou Russell, Harmon admitted, his client had resided at the Nevada hotel and in a cabin at the Charleston mountain resort, 25 miles north of Las Vegas. He also had operated, in real estate, through which the attorney and others knew Rhinelander as Russell, said the young man had made a considerable income.

Cruelly, based upon the "humiliation" his wife has caused me by her actions," Harmon stated, would be the basis of the divorce complaint, which will be filed in the Las Vegas District court.

The disclosure of Rhinelander's marriage several years ago to the daughter of the New Rochelle hack driver was followed by their separation by his socially prominent family. A subsequent suit for the annulment of the marriage, which took place before Rhinelander was of legal age, was denied, and the young couple permanently separated.

CHICAGOAN IS KILLED BY MEN IN AUTOMOBILE

Chicago —(AP)—Men in an automobile shot and killed Benjamin Flieger, 3, treasurer of a church carnival, early today. Flieger's companion, Mrs. Mary Petty, escaped the revolver fire from the curtained car, and obtained the license number.

The license had been issued to the Midwest Garage Owners association, an organization which has been mentioned in previous Chicago shootings. William Clifford and Michael Reilly, who were tried and acquitted of the murder of Al Partt some time ago, were described as employees of the association. Their duties being to intimidate other garage owners. Clifford and Reilly have since been assassinated, and one of their associates, Thomas McElligott, was found shot dead a fortnight ago.

Mrs. Petty said she observed the killers' car as she walked with Flieger along Archer-ave. She heard a voice from the automobile say, "that's him," then the firing began.

Flieger, the woman said, was deeply religious and took a great interest in church activities.

HONGKONG MOVES TO STOP WATER FAMINE

Hongkong, China —(AP)—Prompt measures to alleviate the serious drought and water famine which are facing Hongkong's population of about a million persons were advocated today by the colonial secretary presiding over a representative committee convened to consider the problem. The colonial secretary said that the colony was passing through a most serious crisis, one that might grow to dimensions which would dwarf similar difficulties in past years. It was therefore proposed that the legislative council vote $100,000 for emergency measures.

Legislative powers also would be asked to commandeer ships and lighters to help in the intensive importation of water from nearby sources.

All vessels belonging to the naval and military authorities are cooperating in this urgent work and the Standard Oil and Asiatic Petroleum companies are lending their tankers for the transportation of water.

The population has been placed on a strict water dole.

PLACE LARGE ORDER

Shanghai —(AP)—Hongkong, suffering from a drought and water famine, has placed an order with the water works here for 4,000 tons of water daily to aid in supplying its needs. About 25 cents gold a ton will be paid.

FRENCH NOTE PROTESTS U. S. TARIFF BOOST

Statement Says French Are Not Benefitting from Trade Agreement

Washington —(AP)—A formal note from France protesting against the proposal to increase tariffs on certain French products imported into the United States has been delivered to the state department by Ambassador Claudel.

The note reiterates arguments of the French government that France is not benefitting from the provisional favored nations arrangement made between the two governments after the United States protested against the Franco-German trade agreement of 1927.

The French also contend that many of the proposed rates will impose tariffs of French goods which do not compete with American products. Items cited in the note under this category are of a more or less minor nature and include several luxury food stuffs.

While it had been reported that the French were considering sending such a protest, the delivery of the note caused some surprise in official and diplomatic circles since the French-American tariff discussions had been considered of a somewhat different character than those of other nations and has been the subject of lengthy negotiations which had been exchanged through the American embassy in Paris, and the present communication is the first on the immediate tariff situation which has been delivered by the French embassy here.

OTHERS FILE PROTESTS

Formal protests against the tariff also has been filed by Spain, Italy and Persia, and retaliatory action has been urged in these countries as well as France. More than a dozen nations have forwarded material through the state department for the consideration of the house ways and means and senate finance committees.

A reputation of merchants representing extensive exporting interests in Persia called at the Persian legation this week and urged intercession with the American government against proposals to increase tariffs on certain Persian products imported into the United States. They told Persian Minister Hefian that the 120 chambers of commerce in Persia voted last week to press for reprisal legislation if the proposed rates are adopted. The proposal which they will support will be for the imposition of a 100 per cent duty on certain types of automobiles. This duty, it was said, would principally affect American automobiles and particularly products of the General Motors and the Ford Motor companies.

Prince Firouz, financial secretary of the Persian legation, told the Associated Press today that while the attitude of the Persian business interests did not necessarily constitute that of the government, it would have to take full cognizance of the movement.

Threats of retaliatory action against American goods since the tariff report was made public have been of a world-wide nature. Chambers of commerce in Italy, France and Spain have urged adoption of measures by their governments against American products. Full reports on all such movements, as well as those from several countries proposing a world economic combine against the United States, are being forwarded to the state department by American missions abroad.

Former Governor Parker Takes Lead Against Present Executive

New Orleans —(AP)—John M. Parker, former governor of Louisiana, called back upon the political horizon from retirement by opposition to the administration of Gov. Huey P. Long, set about today to reorganize the state and "lift the citizenry out of political disgrace."

As president of the constitutional league of Louisiana, organized in New Orleans yesterday by citizens from various sections of the state, Mr. Parker issued a public statement rebuking the official acts of Governor Long and outlining the purposes of the league.

He declared that the course of official conduct "on the part of the chief executive of this state has brought the state into scandal and ridicule beyond its limits to its great shame and disgrace and to its financial and industrial detriment."

The league declared its attention first would be directed toward fighting recall movements aimed at certain members of the legislature who sought to have Governor Long removed from office by voting the recent unsuccessful impeachment proceedings against him. Other objects of the league are:

"To restore constitutional government in this state; to protect the rights of the people and the character of their representatives and to efface the disgrace of the present regime."

Think Japan Is Ready To Sign Treaty

Ratification of Kellogg Anti-war Pact Expected in Next Few Days

Washington —(AP)—Ratification of the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war by Japan, the last of the 15 original signatory nations, is expected in American government circles probably within the next few days.

The approval of the treaty by the Japanese government, which will bring into being the pact renouncing war as a national policy by the vast majority of the world nations, has reached its final stages. Advances reaching the state department relate. Premier Tanaka has submitted the pact to the emperor, who has turned it over to the privy council for examination under the direction of the Japanese constitution in case of the treaties.

The privy council, it is believed, by state department officials is certain to grant its approval, although it is expected to add an interpretation to the pact making clear that the treaty-making power vested in the emperor is not affected by the treaty.

If the Japanese government does approve the treaty, it will not go into full effect, however, until its ratification is deposited in the archives of the United States government, as is prescribed in the pact itself. President Hoover upon that action will issue a proclamation that the 15 original signatory nations have deposited their instruments of ratification, and Secretary Stimson will dispatch to each of the other 14 signatories, and to the other adhering nations a certified copy of every instrument of ratification or adherence.

Since the treaty was signed in Paris on August 27, 1928, the United States and the other original signatory nations except Japan have ratified it and 48 other nations have either deposited their adherence, or signified their approval or intention of adherence.

1,000 MEN ATTEND FOX RIVER VALLEY SAFETY CONFERENCE

Minneapolis Judge Outlines
Three Causes for Car Accidents

Automobile accidents are caused by lack of courtesy, inattention and failure to exercise common sense. Judge Levi M. Hall of the Minneapolis Municipal court told more than 1,000 men attending the Fox River Valley Safety conference at Manitowish Tuesday afternoon at the high school building.

Approximately 50 local men, members of the Appleton Safety school were present. Other delegates represented industries of over 11 Wisconsin cities, towns and villages as well as out-of-state communities. Mr. Hall opened his talk with statistics showing the great increase in motor traffic on highways and the increasing problems for providing parking spaces in the cities and said the man who discovers some method of traffic control that will absolutely reduce accidents to a minimum will go down through time as one of the greatest saviors of mankind. He said that motorist should see that the car was always in perfect mechanical conditions, brakes and lights in good order and tires kept inflated.

"One of the chief causes of automobile accidents is lack of courtesy on the part of the average car driver. We always want to argue with the other driver on the question of the right-of-way and are seldom willing to yield to him. Motorists get behind the steering wheel of an automobile and they become obsessed with one idea and that is 'me first'."

"The third cause of accidents is the failure to use common sense in driving. Unfortunately, many motorists cannot exercise that degree of sense because they are not naturally possessed of it. In the class of those who fail to use common sense can be placed the drunken driver and the wilfully careless driver," the speaker said.

Dr. William A. Ganfield of Carroll college and James Heron, Chicago, were the other speakers on the Tuesday afternoon program. H. S. Bonar, superintendent of schools, presided at the session.

Sectional conferences in which experts in safety work in the pulp and paper, metal, woodworking, public utility sections and gas, electric transportation divisions discuss problems peculiar to their industry were held at the various halls and hotels of Manitowish.

Analyzing An Accident was the demonstration topic discussed by Marion Smith, director of Foremanship Training class in the state with headquarters at the Appleton vocational school at the Tuesday morning session.

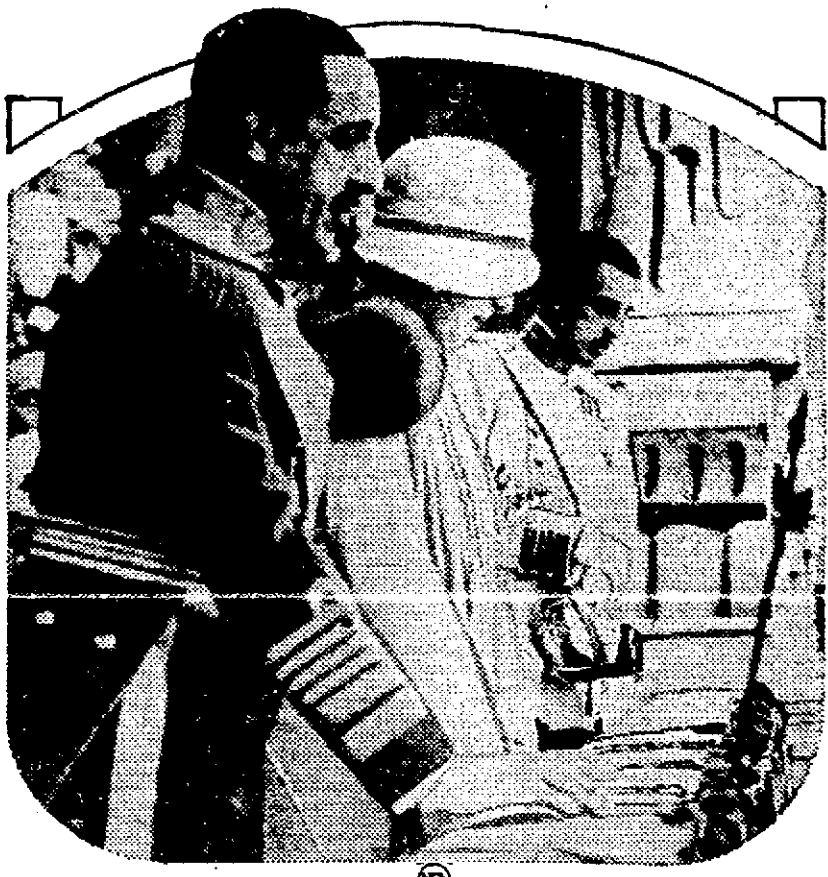

Safety Factors in Modern Production was the topic of an address given by H. G. Noyes, itinerant coordinator of the pulp and paper industry at the local vocational school at the Tuesday morning session.

William Schubert, chief engineer of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company was chairman of the electric division discussion group. The Other Side of Safety was the topic of an address given by C. H. Pfeiffer, superintendent of the electric department of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation of Green Bay.

The general meeting at the high school Tuesday afternoon was presided over by Vyta Wlabetz, a commissioner of the Wisconsin Industrial commission. Mr. Bonar opened the meeting at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening. An hour's program by the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company band furnished entertainment. The Pullman company of Chicago sent its famous Pullman Quartet to sing several selections. Phil Grus of Milwaukee was the principal speaker on the evening program.

Service crews of the power company were kept busy until early Wednesday morning making repairs. Crews of the Wisconsin Telephone company also were forced to repair a wet cable on College-ave.

Fair weather with a rise in the mercury is on the menu for this vicinity for the next 24 hours, according to predictions of the weatherman. Winds are shifting in the north and northeast. The mercury hit the toboggan following the storm on Tuesday afternoon and by 6 o'clock Wednesday morning registered 50 degrees above zero. In 12 hours it dropped 30 degrees. At noon Wednesday the thermometer measured 55 degrees above zero.

RECESS HOPES OF CONGRESS ARE DIMMED

But Administration Leaders Think House Will Settle Relief Dispute

Washington, (AP)—The export debate controversy, the senate committee on the tariff bill, the immigration quota basis of the immigration act, and the beginning of work on the house tariff bill by the senate finance committee, left congress little time today to give thought to its plans for a summer vacation.

Nevertheless, administration leaders, believing that the house would reject the proposal to incorporate the export debenture plan in the farm bill and that the senate favoring it would then permit the measure to go to the president without that provision, still believed that the situation would be sufficiently clear by the end of the week to begin a recess then or soon afterward.

The new compromise bill to provide for the taking of the 1930 census and reorganization of the house, meanwhile, was before the senate, having been accepted by the house after the joint conference committee had changed the date for beginning the canvass from the senate's choice of next November until April, next year. At the same time, the senate was confronted with a renewal of the national origins controversy, with Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, leading the administration forces for action looking to repeal, and Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, heading the opposition.

MAY BE UP TO CURTIS

The outcome of that contest is conceded by proponents of both viewpoints to be in doubt, some even going so far as to believe that it may provide Vice President Curtis with his first opportunity to break a tie vote.

Frequent efforts to obtain an agreement for a vote this week have been blocked, but leaders expect a decision before Saturday morning.

The tariff bill, containing fuses to set off controversies even more violent than that which has held up enactment of farm relief legislation, was expected to occupy the finance committee in public hearings until July 10, after which the measure will be rewritten and presented to the senate at the end of the month.

The committee has divided into four subcommittees to take testimony on the various rate schedules proposed in the house bill so as to expedite the work. That procedure will not be started until tomorrow, however, the full committee of 11 Republicans and 8 Democrats having decided first to hear a number of witnesses today on the question of methods of arriving at values on which duties on foreign products are to be based.

The strong indications which already have been given that President Hoover is not satisfied with the action of the house on the tariff bill have written additional support in the remarks of Senator Allen, Republican, Kansas, that he saw "no occasion for a general revision at this time." It was recalled that the president recommended limited tariff revision for the benefit of agriculture, and that Allen, although the most-recent addition to the senate's roster, was the leading defender of the president's viewpoint on export debenture during the concluding day of the conference.

The conference recommended elimination of that proposal from the farm legislation.

CHINA HAS CONFAB ON RELATIONS WITH RUSS

Nanking, China.—(AP)—Severance of diplomatic relations with the Soviet government was discussed at an important conference this morning between General Chiang Kai-shek, Foreign Minister C. T. Wang and others.

The situation arising out of Chinese demands on Soviet consulates in Manchuria, particularly that at Harbin on May 27th, was considered in detail. Some of those attending the meeting believed that alleged Communist propaganda found there necessitated an abrupt withdrawal of Chinese representatives in Russia.

Others held, however, that establishment of relations on a firmer basis would solve the problem satisfactorily and prevent further alleged subversive activities on the parts of the Moscow agents.

That although "Russia is carrying on its propaganda in Mongolia, Chinese Turkistan and other Chinese territories the nationalist government is unable officially to protest through Chinese representatives at Moscow, inasmuch as China already has unofficially broken its relations with that government."

It was stressed in official circles that although much confusion of the jeopardized relations had already taken place no decision as yet has been reached.

"Color Girl"

Any girl would consider herself lucky to be chosen "Color Girl" for the graduating class of the United States Naval Academy. But doubly lucky was pretty Miss Sarah Vain, below, of Macon, Ga. She not only was selected for this honor, but the midshipman to whom she presented the colors, as shown above, during the graduation exercises, was her fiancé, Manly L. Curry, captain of the winning drill company.

BLIND STUDENT HAS EXCEPTIONAL RECORD IN MARQUETTE GLASS

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Blind since birth, Clifford A. Haymaker, 21, is to receive the degree of bachelor of science "magna cum laude" from the college of arts of Marquette university, here, tonight.

Haymaker, who came to Marquette from Washington High school, Milwaukee, never received a mark of less than 93 per cent in any subject during his four years at the university.

The youth majored in chemistry, and proved an excellent tutor for other students in this subject. He intends to return to the university to do research work in this field before assuming a teaching position.

Haymaker, who is an accomplished pianist, has made his way to and from the school here, as well as about the campus without aid. He uses a typewriter for all writing, and is aided only by his mother in his reading.

Despite his unusual record, Haymaker is extremely modest, today telling the Associated Press that he wanted to be regarded as merely an "ordinary student" and that he believed there was nothing about him or his record that might interest the public.

COURT ACTION STARTED IN MINNESOTA ELECTION

Minneapolis, Minn.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. W. V. Nolan of Minneapolis, who was the Republican nomination for representative in congress from the Fifth Minnesota district, today faced a court fight to be brought by one of his defeated opponents.

A tabulation of Monday's vote in the special primary election to choose candidates for the seat left vacant by Congressman Walter Newton, who resigned to become secretary to President Hoover, showed Nolan had defeated Arch Coleman, former postmaster, his nearest opponent, by 182 votes.

Charges that there were irregularities in the count of votes were made by Coleman and he announced he will file a notice of contest and appeal in district court.

The county canvassing board certified the vote and has declared Nolan winner.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS CHILDREN'S DAY, MONDAY, JUNE 17

City Playgrounds Will Open for Summer Season During Afternoon

A proclamation declaring Monday, June 17, as Children's Day in Appleton has been issued by Mayor Albert C. Rule to mark the opening of Appleton playgrounds for the summer.

Declaring that "children of today are the citizens of tomorrow, and with their development and future welfare depending largely upon the training and social contacts in the school, the home and the playground," the mayor asks that the day be set aside for citizens to consider the broad problems of child development especially through the medium of supervised playgrounds during the summer.

The proclamation follows:

"In view of the fact that many municipalities in the United States plan to observe National Children's day, in appropriate manner so as to focus attention of the public on the problems of childhood, and,

"Because the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow, with their development and future welfare depending largely upon the training and social contacts in the school, the home and the playground, and further,

"The root of much of the present lawlessness in the nation is to be found in misdirected activities of youth during leisure hours, Sociologists declare that the great increase in juvenile delinquency in the cities can be traced to ill spent play hours. Until a child leaves the tender arms of his parents, his character is in the building. During this plastic age manhood and womanhood are shaped to a large degree by activities outside the schoolroom. Hence the play hours of children are not to be passed over as unimportant. Sociologists feel that properly directed play can change the habits of the nation.

"With the closing of school the children of this city enter upon their summer vacation. Hence National Children's day, falls at a time of the year propitious for our citizenry to contain themselves about the broadside of childhood development. We have met this by establishing a supervised playground which will open June 17, 1929.

"Therefore, I, Albert C. Rule, Mayor of the city of Appleton, designate June 17, 1929, as Children's day, and ask the citizens of this city to consider the broad problems of child development to the end that our children may enter adulthood not only with adequate scholastic training but also as useful and good citizens."

ALBERT C. RULE, Mayor.

The supervised playground idea was started in Appleton by the Civic Council in 1927. The first grounds were under the direction of Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton high school. The funds that year were raised by the Council from Appleton business men and manufacturers.

Last year the city council appropriated $3,000 for playgrounds but left supervision of the work to the Civic Council which appointed A. C. Denney, director of athletics at Lawrence College, as supervisor. The program was inaugurated last year with the additional funds and is being improved upon this summer by inauguration of a playground in the lower Fourth ward for girls and small children.

The grounds have been in operation in five wards in the city with directed games and activity for children, young people and seniors boys and girls. Thousands of children play on the grounds every summer and hundreds of older people visit the grounds weekly to watch various games and competitive sports.

Two directors are in charge of each grounds, a young man to have charge of boys and a young lady for the girls. The city has been fortunate during the time the grounds have been in operation in having young people directors who either are students at physical education schools or who are high school or college students who intend to take up physical education and playground direction work later.

The first meeting of directors for the summer will be held Monday morning according to Mr. Denney, and the grounds will officially open Monday afternoon running daily until darkness.

The first ward grounds will be in charge of John Cimkosky and Helmut Schuman. The second, Robert Roemer and Florence Hitcher. Fourth ward, Noll Anderson and Lydia Becker. Fifth ward, Mel Heinritz and Ora Zuehlke. Sixth ward, Norbert Berg and Marie Timm. The new lower Fourth ward grounds will be in charge of Agnes Huberty.

GIANT ELECTRIC CRANE FALLS ON AUTOMOBILE

Racine.—(AP)—A huge, electric traveling crane at the standard foundry here was toppled onto an automobile by last night's storm. There was no one in the cab of the crane or in the car at the time.

Appleton People Have Many Civic Interests

The garbage disposal problem in Appleton is the one most members of Appleton chamber of commerce are interested in, according to a survey of activity recently completed by chamber officers. Sixty nine members of the chamber voting on questions voted in favor of setting the garbage question.

Sewage disposal and the need for an apartment house or apartment houses, holds second and third in interest, respectively, the survey shows. Of the other suggestions offered 51 members want a union bus station here, 49 are in favor of improved school facilities and 33 are desirous of a community chest fund. Eighteen members would like to see the parks improved.

All the suggestions named were parts of the chamber of commerce program last year but were unsolved when new officers took charge. The vote indicated most members favor carrying them to satisfactory completion before attempting new projects.

However, many members made new suggestions to chamber officers. Among them are the following:

Managerial form of government—E. B. Sager.

A new building which would be of benefit to all the citizens of Appleton as well as rural communities near Appleton and tourists. Anything the city may attempt can be completed only through taxation. In order to pay higher taxes and accomplish these various projects the business revenue in Appleton must be increased. The community building is the biggest way that I know of.—A. B. Scheuile.

The establishment of a managerial form of government. Get Labor in on ground floor.—George F. Werner, secretary Y. M. C. A.

A community building.—George R. Wettengel.

New industries.—John E. Hant-schel.

A new parking ordinance pertaining to parking on College-ave and at the postoffice. I think there should be an area of about 100 feet in each block between Durkee and Superior streets where only 15 minute parking would be allowed.—G. S. Fish.

Lighting arrangement of College-ave.—H. W. Kleckberg.

A community chest fund so as to provide each organization with a proper and suitable fund, in order to solicit subscription by the different organizations.—John Haug, Jr.

At least one new industry.—J. A. Lonsdorf.

There is some agitation to beautify the park. I believe it would be wise for the chamber to urge that the be made into another golf course rather than a park as it will then be used generally and in time be self sustaining.—Joseph J. Frank.

Widening and paving Oneida st. from Lawrence to North.—David Smith.

Try and procure a couple of good factories for the city.—David Biettschneider.

Better lighting on College-ave.—O. I. Johnson.

Community building.—T. E. Orblison.

The bringing in of diversified industries to Appleton.—L. L. Doerflinger.

A metropolitan sewer system.—W. O. Thiede.

Securing new industries.—James H. Ballet.

Peabody road along lower Fox river. Establish a community house for Appleton.—William M. Wright.

Garbage disposal first. Apartment house problem next.—F. A. W. Hammond.

More paved streets in northwest section of city. Paving of highway 114 from Waverly beach to Hilbert.—Erik L. Mathsen.

Better street lighting.—John Anderson.

Better lighting on College-ave.—H. B. Ballet.

Better street lighting on College-ave.—E. C. Deichen.

Some of our grade schools are 30 and 40 years old, example old Ryan high, now being used as Third ward school. Modern up-to-date school buildings and personnel are most important consideration in my opinion.—Dickinson.

Bringing in one new industry.—R. T. Gage.

More just freight rates for the middle west to eliminate Panama canal differential.—E. A. Detman.

I feel deeply interested in the garbage disposal proposition.—H. C. Humphrey.

New industries for Appleton.—Chris L. Roemer.

Get new factories to replace paper industry now under a change of location make a survey of proper manufacturing.—G. E. Johnson.

Managerial form of city government.—W. D. Barnard.

OIL GROUPS TALK OVER COMPACT PLANS

Still Hope to Reach Agreement to Curb Over-production in U. S.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—(AP)—The governors' conference considering oil conservation, weary from two days of bombardment by President Hoover's order barring oil prospectors from government lands, today was divided into small groups each trying to clear a trail to the ultimate object, an interstate compact which would control production.

Most important of the groups, the delegations from Texas, Oklahoma and California, gathered around the breakfast table with Chairman Mark L. Requa to enjoy Colorado Springs lamb chops and at the same time try to mentally digest the far tougher subject of just what the big three on the oil producing states can do toward bringing about a compact.

The work to be done at the early breakfast was left over from last night because two members of the Oklahoma delegation had engaged themselves and sacrificed their morning sleep to the night's social activities while the third member, J. Barry King, informed the conference that his wife was in town and he "had to pay some attention to her."

GOVERNORS CONFERENCE

In another part of the hotel the governors of four states were conferring in an effort to bring back a general meeting later in the day some program or policy to which the conference could pledge itself. The governors were Emeryson of Wyoming, Erickson of Montana, Adams of Colorado, and Reed of Kansas.

In another part of town independent operators who had presented their views on the compact as being unfavorable unless it limited import of foreign crude, were discussing their next move and perfecting new organizations.

Although the storm which the representatives from the Rocky mountain states raised against the Hoover order apparently had spent its force there were still distant but definite rumblings which indicated that it might return. Several of the delegates were in session today discussing the advisability of again trying to put the conference on record on the subject. Each effort had been stopped by Chairman Requa refusing to entertain a resolution condemning the order and another one directed against an adjournment of the general meeting.

SELL GIVES TALK AT DREPHAL EQUITY MEET

Gus Sell, county agent, gave an address on 4 H club work at a meeting Tuesday evening on the Drephal farm of the American Society of Equity. In addition to the business meeting of the organization the ladies of the group presented a sketch in which they showed the work which must be done by farm wives. A social hour followed the meeting.

IOWAN FAVORS THIRD PARTY ON FARM AID

Brookhart Wants "Progressive" Party if Debenture Is Killed

The Iowa suggested the debenture certificates might be given to stabilization concerns and in that way speculators would never get their hands on them.

"If there were nothing to hope from this farm bill by its present provisions I would vote against it," Brookhart added. "But I believe we will be able to put the debenture in to the tariff bill."

Continuing, Brookhart said the president was in "a great error" when he pronounced this bill recommended by the conference report to be the "most important agency ever set up in the government to assist an industry."

"I want to call attention of the senate and the country," he went on, "that this government set up a food administration and a wheat corporation with power to fix prices, with power to condemn facilities, with power to buy and sell farm products and with power to maintain the farmer's cost of production plus a reasonable profit even under war time conditions."

"The wheat corporation was also given a billion dollars on the 4th of March, 1919, after the war was over. Contrast this with the little $500,000,000 proposed in this bill."

Brookhart argued the president also was in error when he said "subsidies" had not figured in the campaign. The Democrats, the Iowan added, had declared against subsidies and they were defeated.

If the rejection of the conference bill by the senate yesterday delays farm legislation Brookhart asserted, it would be the president's and not the senate's fault.

HAD NO ROLL CALL

Some of the senate opposition to elimination of the debenture plan was based on the ground that the house had never had a roll call vote on the proposition and last night at a White House conference an agreement was reached to have that branch of congress formally record itself.

To that extent at least, the coalition of Democrats and Republicans, who have steadfastly insisted upon inclusion of this proposal in the bill, stood victorious today over the opposition of Mr. Hoover.

The action of the senate in sustaining the debenture plan resulted in a quick and vigorous retaliation from the White House. No less emphatic than in his previous declarations, the president asserted the vote "adds further delay to farm relief and may gravely jeopardize" the enactment of the legislation.

Friends of the bill are now awaiting the house vote in the hope that the action of that body will clarify the atmosphere and allow the program outlined by Mr. Hoover in calling the special session to go forward.

The agreement to bring the issue to a vote in the house, where such action has been resisted throughout the long controversy that has held up enactment of the farm legislation, was reached at a White House conference last night after the senate had rejected the joint conference report recommending elimination of the debenture section from its bill.

HOOPER'S OPPOSITION

The White House meeting, attended by Republican leaders of both branches of congress, was called after the president had made public a statement reiterating his opposition to the debenture plan and expressing in unmistakable terms his support of the compromise bill presented in the joint conference report and accepted by the house.

Senate Democratic leaders today regarded the decision to bring the debenture plan to a vote in the house virtually as a complete victory for their contention. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, asserted in a statement issued after the senate rejected the report, that "if the house takes a vote and rejects the debenture plan, its advocates to yield and the bill will be passed and debentures eliminated."

The statement issued by the president after the vote yesterday made his position even more emphatic, saying:

STATEMENT IN FULL

"The vote in the senate today at best adds further delay to farm relief and may gravely jeopardize the enactment of legislation. In rejecting the report of the senate and house conferees, which report was agreed to by members of both parties, the senate has in effect rejected a bill which provides for the creation of the most important agency ever set up in the government to assist an industry—the proposed federal farm board—endowed with extraordinary powers to reorganize the marketing system in the interest of the farmer, to stabilize his industry and to carry out these arrangements in conjunction with farm cooperatives, with a capital of five hundred million dollars as an earnest of the seriousness of the work. It is a proposal for steady upbuilding of agriculture onto firm foundations of equality with other industry and would remove the agricultural problem from politics and place it in the realm of business."

"The conferees' bill carried out the plan advanced in the campaign in every particular. Every other plan of agricultural relief was rejected in that campaign and this plan was one of the most important issues in the principal agricultural states and was even a mandate by an impressive majority in these states. Subsidies were condemned in the course of the campaign and the so-called debenture plan—that is, the giving of subsidies on exports—was

SMITH CONTRACT BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR

Smith assembly bill to prohibit public officials from having any interest in public contracts which may come before them, the measure now will go to the governor for approval or veto. WOMEN INTERESTED IN MODERN COOKING INVITED TO SCHOOL

Post-Crescent Brings Noted Home Economics Expert to Appleton

All women interested in modern cooking methods and new ideas in food combinations will be glad to learn of the cooking school to be put on by the Appleton Post-Crescent each afternoon on June 15, 19 and 20.

The lessons will be given by a Home Economics expert of wide experience, who has taught the art of good cooking for many years. She is Mrs. Margaret E. Brown, graduate of Indiana State Normal school and who is now connected with the Department of Food Economics of the Corn Products Refining company.

The lectures will cover every phase of cookery from the finest cakes to delicious pies and salads. Each afternoon from two until four o'clock there will be first a lecture on some particular phase of cookery or food study, followed by a demonstration illustrating the points brought up.

The Post-Crescent feels that in conducting this school for the benefit of the housewives of Appleton they are giving them a real treat, for Mrs. Brown is considered one of the best lecturers available in this kind of work. From reports from other towns where she has been conducting schools, we know the women of our town will be delighted with this opportunity to gain expert instruction without cost.

Mrs. Brown gives her instructions in such a manner that anyone can become a splendid cook by following the easy methods so carefully and thoroughly described by her, and we consider ourselves fortunate in being able to make arrangements with the Corn Products Refining company to have her come to us at this time.

There will be lectures on the proper diet for every member of the family, what each should eat and why. Special stress is laid on food requirements for growing children, but the women folks are not neglected either, and there will be many suggestions for simple, home dishes, as well as concoctions for parties and festive occasions.

"Quicker ways of doing things," is Mrs. Brown's motto, and we are sure every woman who comes to the lectures will appreciate her suggestions.

Mrs. Brown has asked that each woman bring her note book and pencil so that she can jot down the recipes and suggestions given during the lectures.

STRESEMANN, BRIAND DISCUSS EVACUATION

Madrid.—(AP)—Evacuation of the Rhineland and the Saar basin offers problems which Great Britain and Belgium must share with France and Germany.

The two, who conversed with the greatest friendliness probably will move for an international conference to discuss the matter.

BUSINESS IS DULL SO MERCHANTS BUSY SELVES ON STREETS

Champaign, Ill.—(AP)—When farmers as this vicinity catch up with the time lost during the spring rains and come to Champaign they had better leave the dust of the country behind. The streets glistened today as they haven't in years and this is the reason:

With the farmers on their farms there was little business to transact and the businessmen got out their brooms and shovels and went to work on the pavements.

Surprised by the results, the shopkeepers decided to repeat the process each week during the summer.

PACIFIC FARMERS HOPE FRUIT FLY WON'T COME WEST

Loss Would Total Millions if Pest Should Cross Country from Florida

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press

San Francisco—California agriculturists are not a little alarmed over the possibility of the Mediterranean fruit fly, which the Federal government is warring against in Florida, hitchhiking across the country and making itself at home on the Pacific slope.

Since the dreaded pest was discovered two months ago in Florida this state has doubled its agricultural border patrol; which at docks, highway gates to the state, express offices and freight depots guards against importations of perishables which contain insect enemies.

Reflecting anxiety over the fly having gotten a foothold for the first time in North America, prominent representatives of California agriculture, finance and transportation will meet today at the state capitol, Sacramento, to hear reports on efforts to control the Florida situation and to consider what more in the way of prevention can be done here.

What the entrance of the fruit fly would mean to this state can be visualized from agricultural statistics which show that something over two million acres produce fruits and vegetables with a farm value of more than $300,000,000. The "medfly", as it is being called, is not particular about the type of plant it utilizes for room and board, so this whole basis of prosperity is felt, would be seriously endangered were the pest to gain a foothold.

LOSS THREATENS

"The total cost of the World war would not compare with the economic loss that will result if we do not throw every material resource into this battle right now," declares the leading agricultural organ in the state.

At the ideal temperature of 78 degrees, this publication points out, "multiplied generations can deliver millions of maggots into an orchard from one infested fruit in one season. Just let the word get out that the fly has been found alive in a California orchard and our past bulk markets will change to no markets at all."

Agricultural leaders in all the western states, including California, are watching the contest between man and insect in Florida, into which the federal government has thrown four and a quarter million dollars, with anxiety. While they trust the pest will be controlled, they are on the alert in all western fruit areas, as it is realized that if the fly appears, it must be eradicated before it has time to spread.

Precautions are not being weakened by studies which indicate that the medfly would not find the climate of California as favorable as Hawaii and Florida, for instance. It does not multiply so rapidly in a dry climate as it does where the air is moist. There is rather a wholesome fear, however, that the little pest would feel pretty satisfied with California's warm valleys.

In the past California's gigantic efforts to keep out horticultural and field crop pests have been at times a bit resented by travelers. It has even been hinted by some visitors that what the state feared was the "bug of competition." Present increased precautions against entrance of the medfly are allaying such suspicions.

REAL ESTATE OFFICE FLOODED DURING RAIN

A miniature flood was experienced at the Laabs and Shepherd real estate office, 347 W. College-ave, during the heavy rainstorm Tuesday afternoon. The water ran down into the gutter in front of the real estate office and rose until it reached the front door. Then it suddenly receded. Investigation disclosed that the water had drained into the basement of the building through the coal chute. Members of the firm all joined hands and had a merry time swabbing out the cellar.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

"Yes, I'm afraid it is a little skimpy."

Gladioli Add Decorative Touch To Every Garden

There never will be too many gladioli about the garden. While they are relegated chiefly to the realm of cutting plants they have a decorative garden value that should not be overlooked. A supply should be tucked in all about the garden to be allowed to bloom for decoration and not for cutting.

The graceful spikes of the primulinus hybrids are fine for garden effect. The stiffer spikes of the larger and more robust growing hybrids lack the grace of the more slender primins. For garden effects glads should be planted in clumps of a single color. The background and companion plantings of blooming annuals or perennials should also be considered in the planting. Beautiful effects are created by planting pink or yellow and salmon glads with the lavender background of the sea lavender, statice. Rosy Morn petunias with pink glads is another favorite combination, the petunias repeating the color of the glads rising above them. The light blue bedding petunias are also effective as a ground planting for the pink glads. Give the glad good soil and set the bulbs five inches deep. For exhibition bloom extra care will be needed. There are several books devoted to the culture of gladioli and giving elaborate details as to the best methods of growing show spikes. F. F. Rockwell's little gladioli book is one of the most practical of these, being small and easily carried in the pocket for garden reference.

The newer primulinus hybrids have attained a size under the skilled handling of plant breeders which rivals the older strains and at the same time retaining the graceful

"I have been traveling in connection with my furniture business for more than twenty years. Irregular and hurried eating caused my stomach to get in such bad condition I had to almost quit eating. I would have the regular old heartburn after each meal and hot acids would keep coming up in my throat for hours afterwards. Many a time I have missed a meal, rather than have all that misery. I also suffered with constipation and tried nearly everything to correct this condition, but was never able to get more than temporary relief. I felt lifeless and worn out all the time, didn't feel like calling on my customers, and I guess my bad health has cost me many a dollar's worth of business.
"This wonderful Sargon treatment had a soothing effect on my stomach and strengthened my whole system. I can now enjoy my meals without bad after effects, and I am so much better and stronger in every way that I feel like a new man. That dull, tired feeling left me and I have renewed energy for my work. Sargon Soft Mass Pills entirely overcame my constipation. It's mighty fine to be enjoying good health again.
"I have told a lot of my friends about the Sargon treatment and I am glad to recommend it to all."

Plant glads freely for garden color. They come in midsummer to give new life and beauty to the garden just as other plants begin to show the effects of summer heat and before the fall glory of the asters and other composites take command of the garden picture.

PRINCIPALITY OF WISCONSIN
An assemblyman in the legislature has drafted a resolution asking the federal government to exempt Wisconsin from the fold of prohibition. The resolution reads in part: "That the federal government be requested to desist from enforcing the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution in Wisconsin hereafter in consideration of the wishes of the people expressed at the polls on April 3 and the almost unbroken line of support given by the state of Wisconsin to the Republican party."
It is said the move was prompted by the "humiliation" to which citizens of the state were subjected by the recent dry raid on the Republican gathering at Ripon. The assemblyman who conceived this idea must have heard of the protest adopted by the city council of Green Bay against the padlocking of saloons and demanding that the city be permitted to license the liquor traffic and regulate it to suit itself, without interference by the federal government. The council builded greater than it knew. We have no doubt the legislative plan will get results, even if it does represent a new departure in political science. It is not the first time something new has emanated from Wisconsin. The argument that the president ought to order the prohibition authorities not to go into Wisconsin because of the "almost unbroken line of support given by the state of Wisconsin to the Republican party" is conclusive, especially when superimposed on the "wishes of the people." Exceptions might be made of Wisconsin's representatives in the house and senate, but that is history which should be easily overlooked.
As soon as the government at Washington has granted Wisconsin permission to have its beer and liquors without molestation by its officers, it will then be in order for the legislature to adopt a resolution requesting the federal government to exempt its citizens from the payment of federal income taxes. It might be advisable to hold a referendum on the question and let the legislative action follow. This would probably have a better effect. When that is accomplished we can petition the president to instruct the customs authorities to pass the imports of Wisconsin citizens at the principal ports without payment of duty.
There is, in fact, no end of "reforms" and privileges Wisconsin might secure if it went about them in this orderly and effective manner, keeping at all times its devotion to the Republican party before the powers at Washington. Indeed, we might go even further and petition congress to set up the principality of Wisconsin, entirely freed from obligations under the constitution of the United States, but at the same time enjoying its protection and benefits. That should realize the dream of a Utopia which mankind has begun to despair of.
We suggest referendums on all these questions at the next election. We shall have a new dedication of freedom, and we can assuage the wrongs of Ripon by declaring it the birthplace. This will in no sense dampen the luster of Ripon's having given to the world the Republican party; rather, it will augment it. Finally, we shall be secure against all further competition from Florida and should be able to keep our money makers at home.

THE WORKER PRODUCES MORE
One of the chief reasons for this country's present high state of prosperity is given in the May issue of the Outline of Business, a publication issued by the Central National Bank of Cleveland.
This shows the average American worker, in 1928, produced goods worth $7508.
In 1914 the average stood at $3445 per worker. During the years since then it has risen steadily, due partly to the introduction of labor-saving machinery and the development of improved production methods, and partly to greater efficiency on the part of the workers themselves.

This great increase in productivity per worker speaks volumes about the health of American industry.

MAKING APPLETON ATTRACTIVE
A year or two ago when a prominent Appleton man visited in Washington he was introduced to General Charles G. Dawes, then the vice president of the United States, and Mr. Dawes was told his visitor was from Appleton, Wis. The vice president paused for a moment and then "Appleton, isn't that the city you approach over a long high bridge with a beautiful pastoral scene on one side and a splendid industrial picture on the other?" The vice president was assured that his memory was correct and then came this compliment: "You know that was one of the most beautiful pictures I ever saw. Last year when Mrs. Dawes and I were touring Wisconsin we stopped on that bridge to enjoy that beautiful scene. I'll never forget it."
We who live in Appleton need to be reminded now and then of what we have here. A reminder like the compliment of General Dawes is required to keep alive the realization that nature has been kind to us.
But we must not be content only with what nature has provided. The American legion recognized this when it adopted as its major activity the beautification of our city. It is calling upon men and women of Appleton, through the Flower and Garden society, which it sponsors, to make Appleton the show place of Wisconsin by removing unsightly buildings, by covering dump heaps, by beautifying homes and gardens, by making this a real Garden City.
This is a project that every person can support wholeheartedly. Every person who makes his own surroundings beautiful adds to his own enjoyment and at the same time has an important part in the general plan of beautifying Appleton.
One of the means adopted by the Legion to stimulate interest in home flower gardening is the flower show which is to be held in the Armory on June 22 and 23. This is a venture which must enlist the support of every civic-minded Appleton resident for its sole purpose is to make Appleton more attractive. And it is not far fetched to say that an attractive city must be a prosperous city.
The Legion deserves the commendation of Appleton for sponsoring this movement, but it must have widespread support to reach its objective of making our city the most beautiful in Wisconsin.

MAC DONALD TO COME TO AMERICA?
London dispatches say that Premier Ramsay MacDonald contemplates a visit to Washington in the near future for private conversations with President Hoover. It is an exceedingly interesting piece of news. If true, as we trust it may be, it means a radical departure from old and tortuous diplomacy. It means that the British prime minister is coming to the United States to talk directly and intimately with the head of this government on the all-important question of naval disarmament. It means putting the cards on the table by the heads of two nations who must in the last analysis determine the question, instead of wasting months of negotiation through the usual diplomatic channels and the conveying of innumerable empty phrases.
It may startle the Old world diplomatists, but it will hearten the great bodies of people who are looking for definite action on reduction of armament and greater guarantees of peace. We have no doubt that if MacDonald comes to America he will find a cordial welcome by the American people and a sympathetic reception by the president. It may be that other matters than disarmament will be discussed, but whatever the ground covered, it cannot fail to promote better relations and a more satisfactory understanding between the two nations. What the world needs is more red blooded statesmen to deal with its difficult problems and less red tape.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY RICHARD MASSCOCK
New York—Actors who wish, for any reason, to put aside their stage identity usually have at their disposal a very simple expedient—they use their real names.
Thus when Richard Dix wants to be incognito he calls himself E. C. Brimmer. And few who see "E. M. Blythe" on a playbill recognize it as the original name of Ethel Barrymore.
Dix recently registered at a Baltimore hospital under his birth name. Usually it affords him a shield against the public's intrusion when he sets out to enjoy a private holiday.
As "Pete" Brimmer he can roam New York with a few cronies and without even the hotel help recognizing in him more than a striking resemblance to a certain movie star.
Dix sometimes picks the hotel itself because of its suitability as a hideaway. Not that he goes to some obscure little inn on a side street. Quite on the contrary, he stops at the corner of high-end places, where clerks in cutaways wear a broad-A accent and elevator starters wear ambassadorial breeches. Nobody would think of looking for a Quarterback or a Knockout Kelly in such surroundings.
Miss Barrymore uses her family name to cloak her work as a drama director. She directs the play in which she stars in her own repertory theatre, but she prefers to be known only as an actress. Hence the line on the program, "Directed by E. M. Blythe."
"PETE'S" OLD HOME
Dix will become "Pete" Brimmer again this summer, when he goes back to Minnesota to visit his folks for the first time in 16 years.
He now intends, however, to revisit St. Paul, where his parents live, and his old fishing haunts near Hudson, Wis. In that locality he used to be a farm boy, toiling barefoot for 50 cents a day, and all that sort of thing.
After exchanging recollections with the neighbors, "Pete" will board a train for Hollywood to rejoin William LaBaron, the picture supervisor, who "discovered" him as Richard Dix the actor in a Broadway theatre and again will be his boss.
There is only one ant in his butter, Dix would rather stay in New York.
CANE SPECIALIST
A. W. Newman, cane expert in a Fifth Avenue store for more than 25 years, reports a falling off in the walking-stick trade. The post-war generation, he says, is feeling to take up the art of swinging a stick, walk shillalah. Newman himself does not carry a stick.
There are two classes of stick-carriers, the one-stick men and the connoisseurs who own a rafterful. Mayor Walker probably has as many as anyone else in New York—more than a score. Calvin Coolidge also has quite a few, given to him by friends who happened to be Newman's customers. The former president prefers malacca canes with horn handles, which incidentally are the most fashionable.
What are the trends, malacca-toters are still so numerous they are always picking up the wrong one in public places. Jesse Lynch Williams, the author, says he has accidentally exchanged sticks with strangers 15 times in the last 20 years.

Today's Anniversary
NEW YORK CITY
On June 10, 1665, New York City was incorporated. A year before it had passed from Dutch control—under the name, New Amsterdam—to the English.
Under the original charter, which went into effect 264 years ago today, the mayor and aldermen were to be appointed by the governor of the province. It was many years before the municipal officers were elected.
New York City offers an interesting study of early efforts in this country toward efficient management of city affairs. As early as 1667, while the city was still under Dutch rule, a local tax was levied to purchase fire ladders, hooks and buckets. It was one of the earliest instances of taxation for local improvement in America.
A year later, in 1668, the first street paving in the modern manner was laid. It, too, was paid for by assessing abutting property, after a plan to let each lot owner along the street do his own work was rejected.
In 1673 the province of New York passed again into Dutch hands, but England regained it the following year and held it until the American Revolution.

Adventures In The Library
By Arnold Mulder
READING FOR ITS OWN SAKE
In his book, "The Hows and Whys of Human Behavior," Dr. George A. Dorsey devotes a chapter to the subject, "What Do You Read?" Most of the chapter is not devoted to answering that question but rather to the question "What Should You Read?" The preacher crowds out the scientist and Dorsey ventures to lay down what he considers the objectives in reading.
They are, he admits, different for different people. He advises his readers to take stock, find out what their objectives in life are and then make their reading contribute to reaching their goal. In other words, reading should, broadly speaking, be utilitarian.
He does not state it as baldly as that, but it amounts to practically that. The word "utilitarian" is of course not interpreted in the sense which George A. Babbitt would use it, and it is possible that Dorsey would be able to make out a good case for his contention, holding that even the most intellectually or artistically refined objective may be considered useful in some sense.
But roughly the chapter seems to mean that you should read to get somewhere. Reading should lead to action. The advice he gives is about the same that the highly practical person gives who can see nothing worth while in fiction or poetry or anything else of the sort, but who will tell you that you should read useful books that will "improve the mind."
Of course, he says at one point, if you are merely "after entertainment, then go ahead and read any sort of trash that helps you to kill time, but if you are more serious minded you should take your reading more seriously and give it direction.
With all due respect for Dorsey, I see no reason why anyone should apologize for reading without any idea in mind of making it contribute to any practical end in life. Why shouldn't anyone read for his own sake—not to make money, not to become more clever in his profession, not to become a better conversationalist, not to win honor for learning, but merely to feed his own inner life, satisfy his intellectual curiosity.
We think nothing of it when a cultured man or woman listens to music for its own sake. The lover of music has no objective toward which he wants to advance himself by listening to a concert or an opera. He listens to music because it satisfies an aesthetic hunger within him. It will never help him to make more money or to advance his position in the world. If he is a true lover of music he will go to a great deal of trouble to get an opportunity to listen to the best singers and players. He will invest hundreds of hours a year in it and he will spend many dollars on it.
We do not say he is wasting his time and money because at the end of a year of reasonable indulgence in music he is no richer than he was the year before. He is in fact richer—artistically. He has done for his soul or his mind or whatever you want call it what a normal person does for his body when he eats wholesome food.
But reading, we usually assume, should be utilitarian. For what reason? The man who reads "The Ode on the Intimations of Immortality" not religiously but aesthetically, or the "Ode to a Grecian Urn," or a novel by Joseph Conrad is not wasting his time. If he needs such mental food, he is merely feeding himself wholesomely and living a wholesome life. He is not making any money and he is not "improving the mind" in the narrow sense, but he is experiencing ecstasy. That is all the excuse anyone needs for reading non-useful books.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Accident Is Accidental
It should be of interest to many of your readers at least those who carry health and accident insurance, that the courts have declared that septic infection is an accident. (McG. T. J.)
Answer—According to the clipping Mr. T. sends in, the supreme court of Washington in the case of Carpenter versus (—) Mutual Life Insurance company, reversed a judgment which was rendered by the defendant insurance company and held the company responsible for the amount of the death loss fixed by the policy, in the case of a man who died from an infection of abrasions of his hand in skinning sheep. The court says the germ enters from the outside, therefore is external. It is a foreign substance forced into the circulation, therefore it enters by violence, and its entry was not intended or expected; therefore it is accidental. Sounds like rare good sense to me, especially coming from a court.
All About the Six Vitamins
I believe you claimed recently there were only three or four vitamins, but I gather from considerable study of books on nutrition, that there are more. Will you kindly enlighten me about this, or refer me to a good source of information (C. W.)
Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the essentials of the six vitamins now recognized. I expect by the time the present edition of the vitamin monograph is exhausted there will be still more vitamins to describe.
Disinfectant and Deodorizer
Do you recommend ——— as a disinfectant and deodorizer for use in an open camp latrine or water closet? (E. P. A.) Answer—I think ordinary unslaked lime is the best disinfectant and deodorizer for that purpose.
Cramps
You mentioned cramps as one of the "bogies" that spoil much fun and do much harm. Do you mean that people do not get cramps and quiver, or do you mean that only persons who can't swim are likely to have cramps? (Miss S. M.)
Answer—Any swimmer or other person attempting prolonged effort in very cold water may suffer cramps in the exhausted muscles, but this scarcely explains drowning. A more likely explanation of drowning of a strong swimmer is dizziness or vertigo from impact of cold water on the delicate mechanism of the ear inside the eardrum or even cold water striking the intact drum. It is well to wear loose packings of greasy lamb's wool in the ear canals if drums are punctured.
(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)
FOOL AND HIS DOG
New York—Oscar Florence is a trusting soul. In a subway recently a stranger struck up an acquaintance with him. He made an appointment to meet Oscar shortly after and promised to secure him a better job for a cash consideration. Oscar drew out his bank account of $2,000, gave it to the stranger, who directed him to a "Dr. Parker." When the address given him disclosed no "Dr. Parker," Oscar reported to police when he found he was the victim of a "confidence" man.
FEMININE FASHIONS
London—Spring and summer has brought out new fads and fancies in feminine apparel. The latest idea is the monocle, chosen so that the color matches dresses or hats. Kiss curls made out of ostrich feathers are popular and a transformation, curls sewn inside a hat, enables blonde women to go out as a brunette and vice versa.
LOST BY SHAVE
London—There are two reasons why the Kenilworth Parish Church called for the resignation of its pastor, Rev. E. T. Bradley, according to him. Because he did not shave enough, and because in asking for prayers for King George he said "King George V," instead of "King George the Fifth," they asked him to abandon his curacy, he says.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD
BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — Look before you leap, but when you do leap, jump far.
That seems to be the maxim governing the unsmiling hero of many a comic fall, classic gag and comic romance, the pokerfaced Buster Keaton.
Standing on the brink of the talkie stream, Buster is planning no ordinary plunge into its turbulent waters. His last non-talkie behind him, Keaton and his "staff" are working out plans for his debut as a talkie star in—no, not just a talking comedy; it's a longer jump than that.
For Buster is going to be the comedian in a full-fledged, girly-girly screen musical comedy.
About the "round table" in his bungalow near the studio after lunch, with the "staff," composed of Director Edward Sedgwick, Raymond L. Schrock, scenarist, and Lew Lipton and Ernie Pagano, gag men, Keaton spoke of his new venture as an "experiment," entered upon as such.
"We'll have a regular musical comedy," was the way he put it, "but it'll be a comedy, and we won't forget we're making a motion picture. There'll be singing and dancing, pretty girls and all, but we're going to keep those cameras moving and keep our players acting, just as for an old time movie."
Buster, by the way, is not undertaking the "experiment" as an untitled screen star making a stab at "stage stuff." He was born to the stage, and followed the footlights in vaudeville until he broke into pictures in 1917. He plays the piano, banjo and ukulele and is a neat dancer in spite of his aversion to the ballroom variety.
Songs by Sedgwick, the director who sometimes amuses himself by composing "popular songs" on his sets between scenes, will be featured, it is planned, and Buster is to be heard in song.
BUT "NARY A SMILE"
He'll sing, yes, and talk, and dance—but he still won't smile.
He never has, for the screen, and it will take more than a microphone to turn up the corners of those solemn lips.
The reason is simply that he has tried it a few times, and it won't work. Not because, as one popular story has it, his face is paralyzed and he can't. He tells of one personal appearance he made in New York. He took two curtain calls without smiling and was called back for a third.
That time he broke out with a grin, and the applause seemed to chill and die away. He wasn't called back again. This experience, he says, cured him of trying to "look pleasant" for the public. But sometimes, when he's in character before the camera, he has difficulty in keeping the straight, glum face that has made him famous.

WOMEN SHOW INTEREST IN ORIGIN OF FUR

BY AILEEN LAMONT Copyright 1929

New York — Women, enjoying one of their prerogatives are intensely curious about the way and why of things the employers for adornment. But when they admire the reflection in a mirror of a beautiful silver fox scarf about their shoulders at the coming fur sales few will realize they are wearing a freak fur or as it is known in the trade a carefully cultivated "sport." Only a few years ago when a silver fox was trapped instead of valued it was so rare that it rivaled in value a good sized diamond. As raised on the carefully managed fox farm the pelts have grown in beauty but they are still unvalued enough to attract the most exclusive buyers. They are still abnormal although less of a mystery than before.

ORGANDIES The present trend of afternoon frocks toward cape collars fairly high waist lines and bouffant or flaring skirts seems made to order for the organdies and this material is necessarily popular. It is charmingly combined with black lace by one New York designer for evening gowns, the organdie being an off white shade. On the gentler shades brilliantly colored designs are appliqued. Yellow is also combined frequently with black.

TOUCHES OF COLOR The just hats are gaining an individuality all their own from the introduction into their makeup of a bright touch of color. This is a great addition to the simpler straw shapes. These are short brimmed on one side and long on the other and the long brim shows a lining of bright-colored crepe de chine. This is the only touch of adornment, which appears.

OPEN BRACELETS

The jeweler refuse to be beaten by so simple a thing as a long sleeve. The bracelets sales might have been endangered by the dress craze and they not thought of the old Roman open bracelet curved about the wrist without fastening. This is meant to go outside the dress sleeve or glove and consequently is nearly an inch bigger than the ordinary bracelet. It may be of any metal and some are cut from jade with red gold ornaments of patterns at the open ends.

FIR FOREST GIVEN STATE BY WOMEN

Seattle, Wash. —(AP)— With only the stipulation that the virgin fir timber be left unharmed the Washington State Federation of Women's Clubs in June will give the state 62 acres of some of Washington's finest forest as a state park.

More than 3,000 clubwomen of the state joined in raising the $30,000 to purchase the land. The timber is in the Cascade mountains on the Sunset highway, main east to west thoroughfare of the state, 62 miles east of Seattle. This highway is a section of the Yellowstone trail and transcontinental highway.

The purchase price was raised principally by popular subscriptions to "Save a Tree" campaign fostered by the federation. Later it was made possible for a person or group of persons to purchase a whole tree for $100. Among the hundred trees bought in this manner many have been dedicated as memorials.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin

BUT for once Pat Tarver failed his daughter. He was so engrossed in a close game of dominoes with Dennis Ross that he had only an absent smile for the distracted girl who came rushing into the Ross "settling" room and laid her hot cheek against his thick, curling black hair. So Tony fled again, not waiting to answer her father's "Did you want anything, honey-girl?"

And as she stumbled into the room that was to be hers during the week she had volunteered to nurse Mom Ross and to keep house for her, Tony asked herself wildly: "What if I'd said, 'Yes Pat, I do want something. Something I want to have, something you can't give me. I want Sandy! Oh, dear God, what a fool I've been, what a blind, thrill-hungry, greedy fool I've been!'"

Tears were crowding her eyes, so that she had to wipe them away on the sleeve of her dress. "Lost my hanky," she moaned, like a desolate child. "Got to send Pat home pretty soon to get some clothes and things. Mustn't forget to phone Annabel to pack a bag. Enough things to last me a week. A week here, in Sandy's room. Sandy's room, with the ghosts of all the Sandys I ever knew crowding it. I can't, I can't."

But even as she protested, she knew that she must stay, for she could not hurt Mom Ross by deserting her now, when she had begged the doctor for permission to act as nurse. And she would have to stay here, in this room, for the Ross' five-room cottage had only two bedrooms, and the hospitable Rosses would be outraged if she should insist upon sleeping on the living room davenport. That would be Sandy's bed when he came back from New York, and he was coming back Sunday. For the first time in all the years that she had known Sandy Ross, Tony Tarver wanted to run away from him, instead of to him, like a homing pigeon.

"But how can I bear to see him now, since I know?" Tony whimpered. "I'll have to see him with her. . . . He laughs at her, thinks she is cunning and cute. I can see his eyes twinkling. . . . Oh, no, no!"

She had been in that room of Sandys a thousand times, but now she looked at it with new eyes, desperate, hungry eyes. And as she looked at the grown-up Sandy's room, a dozen other Sandys crowded about—Sandy at ten, Sandy at twelve, Sandy the first year high, Sandy at fourteen—crowded closer and closer, grinning at her with the grin that had never changed.

A single white iron bed, with one of the brass knobs missing. It had been lost for—let's see—eight years. And old-fashioned patch-work quilt as a spread. She looked close, then snatched up a corner of it and pressed it to her lips. It was the same, the same! Why, she'd pined for herself, as Sandy laughed at her for her sudden interest in sewing, not knowing that it was to be a Christmas present for him. How long ago was it that she had pined him a quilt? She was twelve then, wasn't she? Yes! Nine years ago, and it still covered his bed. Mary Burns had never pined him a quilt! And there was the hole in the rug—the funny flowered old Axminster rug with its nap worn off—burned that long ago when she and Sandy had locked themselves into smoke cigarettes made of corn silks. Mary Burns hadn't that Sandy to love! But would Mary Burns care, having today's Sandy to adore?

HOOVER HOUSE BECOMES IOWA GRETN GREEN

West Branch, Iowa —(AP)— The house where President Hoover was born is rivaling the famous "little brown church in the vale" at Nansua, Iowa, as a place for May and June weddings.

Since Mrs. Jennie Scollars, owner of the house, announced that couples could be married in the room where the president was born, young people have journeyed to this village. Sometimes they bring their own minister and sometimes engage one from West Branch.

Dr. L. J. Leech, who attended the president in childhood illnesses and who went to Washington for the inauguration, presented one bride couple a silver bread tray in behalf of the commercial club of West Branch.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE scarecrow watched kind Scoutly sew, and then he said, "You seem to know just how to do this little task. You're clever as an bee. I'm certain, when you're finally through, that I will feel as good as new." The scarecrow never been a scarecrow quite as fortunate as me.

"Oh, this is not so hard to do," said Scoutly. "And you've helped me, too, by sitting still. I merely push the needle in and out. If I keep on, and naught goes wrong, and this fine thread proves good and strong, you'll soon be patched together, and can walk again, no doubt."

"I'm very glad to say that I have found that if you really try, you can do almost anything. It's easy to succeed. The ones who fail are those who don't do what they can because they won't. Ambition, I've discovered, is the one big thing you need."

Then Clowny said, "His arm is loose, and it will be of no good use unless you sew it tight again. And, gee, look at his head. I fear if Mister Scarecrow'd cough 'twould jar his head and shake it off. You'd better sew that, too. Here is another spool of thread."

So Scoutly kept on sewing till the task was nicely done. And then he said, "All right there, Scarecrow, jump and try to run." The scarecrow did as he was told. He jumped up to his feet, and as he safely ran around, he cried, "This is a treat."

Just then wee Copy shouted, "Hey! I think that trouble's bound this way. Look over yonder, Tynmites! The forest is ablaze. I do not like to start a fuss, but it is heading right toward us. We'd best run for the water." So they all ran, in a daze.

..(Clowny saves the scarecrow in the next story.)

KANSAS GIRL WINS TALLY SCHOLARSHIP

Kansas City —(AP)— A season of free musical study under New York's music masters awaits red-haired Iona Mull, the first girl ever to win the Marion Talley scholarship.

Like Miss Talley, the 13-year-old singer is a soprano. She won the award in competition with 32 youthful singers from Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Miss Mull, whose home is in Great Bend, Kas., took her first piano lesson at six, and has studied voice three years. Two years ago she was soprano winner of an all-Kansas high school competition. She has studied in Chicago and Kansas City conservatories.

No financial limit is placed on the scholarship. It includes lessons in voice, languages, piano, stage deportment and related subject, as well as living expenses while in New York. Boys won the tri-state competition the first three years Miss Talley offered the award.

VARIED DIET IS MOST IMPORTANT

Eat Different, Balanced Foods, Sweetened to Your Taste

The reason why many people do not eat enough, or do not eat the right kind of food, is that they have allowed their daily diets to become too monotonous. Scientific authorities on diet state that too many people in this country are sacrificing both health and enjoyment by trying to eat unappetizing food.

The intelligent use of sugar as a flavoring or seasoning agent can largely solve this problem. It has been scientifically established that sugar is an energy food in the diet, and in addition to this, it makes other healthful foods more inviting to the appetite. It is the ideal flavoring for fruits, vegetables, cereals and beverages.

The sensible way to health is to eat varied foods which contain the different elements necessary to well-being. It is almost impossible to eat these foods unless they are appealing to our appetites. Almost all of them are made more delicious by the addition of nature's great flavor—sugar. Remember the many ways in which sugar combines with health-giving foods—with raw or cooked fruit, in vegetables, desserts, cakes, milk-shakes and cereals. For weariness—eat sugar. DEPARTMENTS WORK TOGETHER TO HALT BOOZE AT BORDER

Justice Department Backs Treasury in Efforts at Canadian Line

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Two hundred additional agents reinforced prohibition and customs forces in the Detroit area today.

The agents were transferred from posts in every part of the United States. More than 50 of the number arrived yesterday and took up their posts with the customs border patrol and prohibition forces. Officials have declined to reveal the exact number of agents to be mobilized here.

Reinforcement of the dry agencies is the first step in the government's announced program to stem the tide of smuggled liquor from Canada. Decision to augment both land and water forces was announced in Washington last week. Details of the program were mapped out Monday at a conference here between Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury; Dr. James M. Doreau, national prohibition commissioner; and authorities responsible for prohibition enforcement in the Detroit area.

Washington—(AP)—The department of justice has thrown its weight into the treasury department's campaign to stop the flood of liquor flowing across the Canadian border in the vicinity of Detroit.

Without waiting for congressional action to unify prohibition enforcement efforts, which probably will require many months to work out, Attorney General Mitchell called John R. Watkins, United States attorney at Detroit, to Washington to work out methods whereby his department could cooperate to best advantage with the concentrated forces of the treasury already ordered into the smuggling area.

That area lies between Lakes Huron and Erie, and the attorney general announced his intention to give the treasury forces all the support at his command to prevent further wholesale violation of the American smuggling and liquor laws. An effort will be made, he said, to coordinate the work along the border.

The attorney general, meanwhile, has been requested by Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, to investigate the shooting of Archibald Eugster in the Detroit river Monday by federal agents, and to suspend the latter if the evidence showed them to be at fault.

"I have found," the representative wrote, "that hair-trigger or drunken prohibition agents who have a tendency of shooting at innocent persons are very much afraid of suspension during their trial."

An investigation of the Eugster shooting and the recent killing of Henry Virkula at International Falls, Minn., both of which have been charged to enforcement agents, has been ordered by the treasury. Congress is expected to hear a good deal about both incidents, Representative Shaffer, Republican, Wisconsin, having already introduced a bill to authorize payment of $25,000 to Virkula's widow.

CHICAGO EXPERIENCES HEAVY THUNDERSTORM

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago yesterday and last night experienced a violent thunderstorm which flooded streets and damaged 20 buildings with lightning. A high wind, which at one time reached a velocity of 48 miles an hour, blew down sign boards and cornices and swept several craft from park harbors into the lake.

Fifteen fishermen caught in the storm on a breakwater were rescued by coastguardsmen. The coast guard also was called to assist the crew of a yacht which was swept out into the lake and overturned by the wind.

By some freakish circumstance, the lake, despite the heavy rainfall, dropped last night three feet in half an hour, causing the Chicago river to reverse its flow. Sewage was flowing into the lake before the floodgates at Lockport, Ill., could be opened to restore the current to its normal direction.

One man was killed when he crawled beneath a freight car to escape the rain and the car was shunted down the track, crushing him. Another man was injured when struck by a falling sign board.

Real Not a Reel Wedding

Here they are—married. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. and Joan Crawford, youthful screen stars, slipped away from Hollywood to New York and were wed in St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church after telling newspaper men that the ceremony wouldn't take place till fall. Doug, Sr., back in Hollywood, knew about it, though, and wired them his blessing. Notice the typical Fairbanks smile—and Joan's wedding ring.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York — Amelia Earhart is wrought up over the idea of an easy $10,000 contest for women fliers. After announcement of a proposed race from Los Angeles to Cleveland came suggestions that the women carry men navigators or start this side of the Rockies. "Ridiculous," said Miss Earhart. She added that she, Eleanor Smith, Lady Heath and Louise McPhetridge would not enter unless it was a real sporting contest.

Westport, Conn.—John Chapman Hilder, author and editor, has ideas on the beauty of the average male's legs in comparison with the average female's. He plays tennis in shorts with the breezes having access to his knees and the style is being followed by sundy other male summer residents. If merchants were up-to-date, he thinks, they'd have their shelves full right now of flannel and linen shorts for men.

New York—Goodbye to some midnight whoopee on the waterfront. The French line is abolishing midnight sailings, because gaiety of friends seeking folks off to Europe has got to be a little too much.

Rome—The Duce is so busy during the day in his eight ministries and other capacities that the clamor of deputies is holding only night sessions, beginning at 9 o'clock.

New York—What a thrill for honest Lauretta Oleston, clerk for a piano company! She found a diamond ring in the lobby of the company's building, notified the elevator man that she had found it, put it on and dazzled friends displaying it. Then she took it to a jeweler for appraisal. He valued it at $10,000. The thrill was bigger than ever. But Lauretta was afraid of such wealth. She left it in the jeweler's safe. Now she is to get a reward from the owner.

BONDS MAKE GOOD TEMPORARY BUY, IF NOT PERMANENT

Returns Are Good, but Entire Field Must Be Studied Carefully

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York — In the article immediately preceding in this series it was pointed out that this was an unfavorable time to purchase securities with borrowed money. How about employing accumulated capital? If one has funds available shall he invest now or shall he hold them in the bank awaiting lower prices for securities?

The answer depends on the position of the investor. A great corporation with a large amount in cash can advantageously loan money on call and many of them have done so, receiving more in interest than they could have made in profits if they had used the money in their own business.

No such course is open to the individual of moderate means. He cannot loan on call and he must decide between keeping the cash on deposit in the bank at a very moderate return or in entering the market regardless of the general price level. The chances are he will do better in accepting the second alternative providing always discrimination is used in the choice of an investment medium.

Most readers will think of this problem in terms of stocks and it is capable of solution in that field but the investor is not restricted to stocks although they are popular

SHERIFF DEPUTIES MUST FILE BONDS OR LOSE BADGES

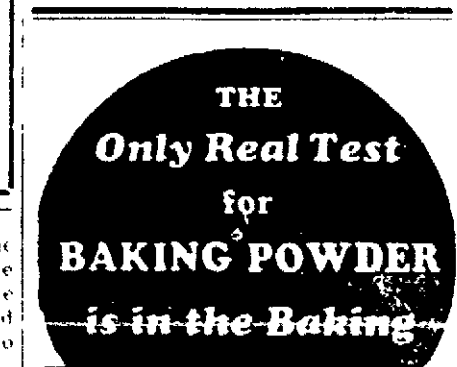

All deputy sheriffs who have not filed a $500 surety bond by June 30, will have their stars revoked, according to an announcement Tuesday afternoon from Sheriff Fred W. Giese. The bonds are to be provided so that only reliable men will remain on the deputy list, the sheriff said. The sheriff's order was issued following a shakeup among the deputies in which two of the officers lost their stars for conduct unbecoming officers. The names of the men whose stars were revoked were not made public by Sheriff Giese.

nowadays. Compare with the stringency in money has been a price depreciation in bonds. Yields are higher than in other investments and it is doubtful if market values go much lower.

Here then is a temporary recourse if not a permanent one. Assuming saving can be used to buy bonds, to be held until conditions make it advisable to exchange them for stocks and meanwhile a generous return on the money is assured. In domestic bonds from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent can now be obtained with all reasonable safety while in foreign issues as much as 7 per cent is to be had. Even if there is little opportunity for capital appreciation, the bond market offers attractions not to be overlooked. A wise old farmer was once asked when was the proper time to plow. He answered when your knife is sharp. When is the proper time to invest? The answer is when you have the money. But look over the entire field first.

FORMER MEMBER OF CABINET ENTERS FIELD OF RADIO

New Bureau Will Act as Agent Between U. S. Board and Broadcasters

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.
Washington—William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, during the Harding administration, has gone into radio.
The former cabinet member has established in Washington a radio service bureau for broadcasters and all other licensed users of the ether. It is sort of a liaison agency between commercial radio organizations and the federal regulatory authorities in the nation's capital.

Associated with Mr. Jardine in this new enterprise are his son, W. M. Jardine, and professor C. M. Janney, Jr., consulting radio engineer. It is the intention of the organization to acquire staff attorneys to represent clients in legal matters before the federal radio commission and other governmental agencies, as well as in the courts.

Mr. Jardine is the first of the high government official group to enter radio. Reports that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis would soon resign to accept an executive position in the industry are flatly denied by this official. Secretary Davis said he has no present intention of resigning and was not now considering any outstanding offer to return to private life.

The growing importance of radio in the every day life of the nation is exemplified by former Secretary Jardine's entry into this field. He has been intensely interested in radio for many years, and participated in the establishment of one of the first agricultural college stations in the country—station KSAC at Kansas City. This station he established jointly with former radio Commissioner Sam Pickard in 1922. Upon becoming secretary of agriculture in 1925, Mr. Jardine established a radio division in that department, and prevailed upon Mr. Pickard to superintend this service. It since has grown into a comprehensive service for the dissemination of agricultural information.

After resigning from his cabinet post as secretary of agriculture, Mr. Jardine joined the federated growers a cooperative organization. Several broadcasters, however, it is understood suggested the establishment of a radio service bureau in Washington. After a survey he felt such an enterprise was justified.

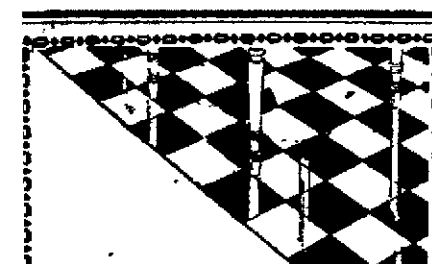

Radio has opened a new specialized branch in law around Washington. Several prominent law firms have begun specializing in this new field by virtue of the many cases that are tried before the radio commission and the mounting number that are being appealed to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia—the judicial body just above the radio commission. Broadcasters throughout the country are finding it necessary to have counsel retained in Washington to represent their interests, because, under present commission procedure, they may be made parties to a case before the commission, without in any way seeking it.

This condition results from the present commission regulation under which every station on a particular channel is called in to defend its rights whenever another station applies for assignment on that particular channel, or for increased power, increased hours of operation or what-not. Consequently, if a particular station does not have legal representation in Washington it has to be called to be present at a hearing at almost any time.

The commission is aware of this situation and is trying to evolve some means of correcting it. It appreciates the hardship upon innocent broadcasters who seek nothing from the commission, but must make a defense of their stations every time some other broadcaster wants to improve his assignment on the air, whether or not that hearing is justified. The radio law specifies that a station must be given a hearing before its application may be denied. In the case of a station seeking an improved assignment on a local channel, as many as 15 other broadcasters may be called to Washington to defend their rights on that particular channel—but most of the time they do not come because they can't afford it.

POPE MUST DECIDE MEXICAN AFFAIR

Issue Will Be Put Up to Him
After Single Conference on Dispute

Mexico City—(AP)—A single conference, probably today though possibly not until tomorrow, between the Mexican president and two Roman Catholic emissaries was expected today to put resumption of church services in Mexico squarely up to the Vatican. The next step in the negotiations would be a decision, favorable or adverse, by Pope Pius.

Authoritative sources revealed that Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan and Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco, hoped to forward a report to his holiness immediately after a conference with President Portes Gil. This conference was arranged with the president's secretary Monday. It was said last night it would take place “within 48 hours.”

This report to the Vatican would follow broad lines already laid down in previous secret negotiations on the church-state problem and would need only to be acquiesced in by the pope for the Mexican Episcopal to permit the clergy to resume services in the Mexican churches.

At this stage the negotiations, it was believed, have touched only upon immediate phases of a possible settlement, the long mooted confiscation of church property and other similarly controversial issues being held over for later conversations.

Except for two instances the two prelates have not appeared in the open since their arrival here Sunday.

BIG GAME HUNTER DIES IN CHICAGO

W. D. Boyce, Publisher, Picturesque Figure in City's Public Life

Chicago—(AP)—W. D. Boyce, publisher and big game hunter died last night in his bungalow home on the roof of his printing establishment. He was 69 years old. He had been seriously ill for more than a month. Boyce for years had been one of the most picturesque figures in Chicago public life. Born in Allegheny, Pa., he came here in 1881. In the late 90's he established his publishing business which was reputed to have netted him a considerable fortune. He published the Saturday Blade and Chicago Ledger, and several other magazines. In 1909 the publisher attracted attention by undertaking a “ballooning” expedition into the wilds of Africa, taking for the first time photographs of jungle animal and plant life. Later he led a second expedition to Africa. During his wanderings about the world he visited practically every country and gained material for several books. Another event was his offer in 1906 to take over the United States postal system and operate at a profit “at half the present rates.” Boyce is survived by his widow, and two daughters, Mrs. Dickinson Bishop of Ottawa, Ill., and Mrs. James S. Parker of Los Gatos, Calif. Funeral services will be held Friday at the Boyce country home in Ottawa, Ill.

“It Pays To Look Well”--

Visit Your Union Barber Shop During This National Look Well Week (June 8 to 15.)

Much depends on our personal appearance today. Your barber can have a great deal to do with keeping up your appearance. Did you ever notice how much trimmer you look and feel when you get out of the barber chair? Keep your hair trimmed and feel more comfortable. No matter how beautiful your hair may be, that beauty is lost if you do not take care of it.

The man of any age, who really cares about his appearance pays regular visits to his barber. The shave and hair cut that costs so little and still adds so much to his standing among men is but a small part of the service offered by the Union Barber. The proper care of the hair such as shampoo, tonics and hair rubs along with the facials and massage are just as much a part of the barbers' trainings as the well known shave and hair cut.

The girl, at all ages, is decidedly particular about her hair. For centuries past the crowning beauty of the “Fair Sex” has been her hair. Today, more than ever before, the master barber has a great service to offer them. The clean barber shops are today as inviting to the ladies as to the men. The home-like surroundings of the 1929 shop are pleasing and comfortable for ladies who desire the services of the Union Barbers.

“If better appearance is what you seek, — Get a hair cut every week.”

Pirates Retain Hold On First Place By Beating Robins

CLAN MCGRAW WINS FROM CINCINNATI; NOW ENGAGE BUCS

Yankees Win Third Straight from Browns; Macks Cop, 14-13

AFTER developing a strange facility for losing ball games to Brooklyn, the Pirates executed a smart about-face at Forbes field Tuesday just in time to save themselves from the ferocious Robins and a plunge into second place. Brooklyn had in the making a double-play which would have ended the game in its own favor, but Dave Baneroff slipped off a wry toss to first base for the second half of the intended double-killing and two Pirate runners scored, winning the game by 2 to 1.

The Pirates remained half a game behind the Cardinals and retained first place on a percentage margin through having played fewer engagements. The Cardinals slipped all over the Phillies as Hal Haid pitched good ball. Frank Frisch aided Haid with a home run, a triple and two singles as Frank O'Doul hit his twelfth homer for the Phils.

Clise Dudley and Irvin Brame were matched against each other in the Pittsburgh battle and collaborated to turn in one of the best games Forbes field fans have seen this season.

The Giants regained their stride by defeating Cincinnati, 9 to 0, through the second shut-out effort of big Fred Fitzsimmons in four days. The Hoosier strong man let down the Reds with three hits in the opening game of the series and came back Tuesday with a seven hit whitewash. The Giants earned an even break in Cincinnati on the victory and ran their record in the west to eight games won and only three lost.

The Clan McGraw now invades Pittsburgh for what shapes up as the most important series of their trip. The Cubs-Braves game at Chicago Tuesday was postponed because of rain.

The Yankees took further steps toward converting the American league race into a two-team struggle by winning their third straight from the Browns, 11 to 5, but the champions gained nothing on the Athletics who defeated the White Sox by 14 to 3 and retained a lead of seven games. The Yankees pounded four St. Louis pitchers for seventeen hits and needed a good share of them. George Pipgras allowed the Browns thirteen safeties and won only because of a certain strength by himself and his support in the pinches.

Young Ed Walsh had another bad day at Philadelphia and George Earnshaw pitched fine ball over the entire route. Simmons, Fox and Dykes aided the Mackian cause with homers.

Although the Red Sox outlived the Tigers by 11 to 7 at the Fenway the western team bunched its hits to advantage, winning by 5 to 3. Owen Carroll had something of an edge over Danny MacFayden and Jack Russell.

Washington batsmen went on another rampage behind Fred Marberry to defeat the Indians at the capitol by 13 to 3. The Senators banged out 15 singles against Miller, Harder and Grant and while Cleveland got eleven on Marberry, the big right hander was close in the pinches.

WON'T TAKE STAND ON NEW DASH RECORD

A. A. U. Officers Put Off Recognition Until November Meeting

New York (AP)—Action on George Simpson's 9-2-5 seconds performance for the 100 yards will be taken at the National A. A. U. convention at St. Louis in November and not before.

Announcement to this effect was made Tuesday by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U. in an effort to set at rest reports that the A. A. U. had virtually decided not to recognize Simpson's new mark because starting blocks had been used.

Ferris pointed out that the records committee will not submit the new mark for consideration until the convention and that the A. A. U. has, as yet, taken no stand upon the use of starting blocks.

JIM MULLEN WILL TRY HAND AT MATCHMAKING

Chicago (AP)—Jim Mullen, whose long career as a boxing promoter recently was halted by difficulty with the department of internal revenue, is to make a new start.

Mullen is to become matchmaker for outdoor shows at Mills Stadium, with Jack Art as promoter. Art has signed a lease for the use of Mills Stadium during the summer.

Mullen was suspended by the state athletic commission after he had been forced to cancel a bout between Sammy Mandell and Louis "Kid" Kaplan, when revenue agents took charge of the ticket sales in an effort to collect $44,000 in tax to be due the government on back taxes on shows.

OMAHA LIGHTWEIGHT SUSPENDED IN ILLINOIS

Chicago (AP)—Tommy Grogan, OMAHA lightweight boxer, will engage in no ring activity in Illinois during the next 30 days and is out $1,000, by a ruling of the state athletic commission.

The body Tuesday fined Grogan $1,000 and suspended him for fouling Luis Ventini, in the bout Monday night.

Giants Will Be Made Or Broken In Pirate Series

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK (AP)—The outcome of the Pittsburgh-New York series which opens Wednesday in Pittsburgh will have some bearing on the future of the Giants.

If the Giants can thrash the Pirates as they have thrashed the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, and seem apt to smother the Cincinnati Reds, in their current western tour, they will return home well fixed for the home-and-game games of the east and even better off for the series with the western teams when they come east again.

The Pirates almost invariably play their "slashingest" when the New York team is on Forbes Field, and the conditions are becoming just right for something of that kind in this week's series.

TIGERS BUY PLAYER; HE REFUSES TO REPORT

Detroit (AP)—George Westling, star shortstop of the Portland team of the Pacific coast league, who was purchased by the Detroit Tigers and ordered to report in Washington last Thursday, is a hold out for part of the price paid by the Tiger management for his contract. Westling said in St. Louis Tuesday night that he did not know when he would report to the Tigers but refused to discuss his reason for delaying. It was learned here, however, that refusal of the Portland club to split the sale price is his grievance.

A. A. U. SUSPENDS WOMEN SWIM STARS ON "PRO" CHARGES

Martha; Norelius and Helen Meany Are Barred as Amateurs

NEW YORK (AP)—The heavy hand of the amateur Athletic union has fallen on two more Olympic champions, Martha Norelius and Helen Meany.

Found guilty of giving unauthorized exhibitions with professionals, Miss Norelius was indefinitely suspended and Miss Meany declared "ineligible to compete as an amateur" by the registration committee of the A. A. U. Tuesday. It was this same body which, in February, set down Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-meter champion, after he had charged that officials of track meets had paid excess expense money to star performers.

In announcing its decision, the committee ruled that Miss Norelius, 400 meter free style swimming champion at the last Olympics, must give up all prizes she won at the national women's championship at Chicago. She had been permitted to compete in that event, the committee said, pending investigation of the charges against her and with the distinct understanding that in the event of an adverse ruling she should return any prizes she might win.

The committee, held that Miss Meany, Olympic lowboard diving titleholder, "had been guilty of such frequent and continuous violations of A. A. U. rules as to render her ineligible to compete as an amateur athlete."

Specifically the committee charged Miss Norelius with appearing in an unauthorized exhibition with professionals at Miami, Fla., Jan. 27 of this year and at other times and places.

The charges against Miss Meany were similar in character.

HARRY KIPKE WILL COACH WOLVERINES

New Football Coach Was Star Halfback During His Playing Days

Detroit, Mich.—Harry G. Kipke, former all-American halfback at the University of Michigan, will return to his alma mater next September as head football coach, according to an announcement late Tuesday by Fielding H. Yost, director of intercollegiate athletics.

Kipke succeeds Elton E. (Bud) Wieman, who was removed from his position by Yost. Franklin C. Cappon, former head football coach at the University of Kansas, will take over Wieman's duties as assistant director of intercollegiate athletics. Cappon already is a member of the Michigan coaching staff. Wieman will remain at the university as assistant professor of physical education.

The athletic board of Michigan State college at East Lansing met Tuesday morning and accepted Kipke's resignation as head football coach. Kipke had a three year contract at the college which still had two years to run.

Kipke's assistants at Ann Arbor will be Jack Blott, former all-American center; George Veemaker, who also is head basketball coach, and Bennie Osterbaan, all-American end for three years, 1925, 1926 and 1927. Ray Courtwright will coach the "B" team and Ray Fisher, baseball coach, will be in charge of a sophomore football team.

BADGER COACHES TO CONDUCT SCHOOLS

George Little at Nashville, Meanwell With Knute Rockne

Madison—George E. Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, has left for Nashville, Tenn., where he will conduct a two week course in football. The Badger director started his coaching career at the George Peabody Teachers College there, where his classes are being conducted now. Mr. Little will return for the Wisconsin six weeks summer session.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, well known coach at Wisconsin, will leave here this week to join his friend and associate, Knute Rockne, for four weeks of summer coaching school work. The Rockne-Meanwell courses will be offered at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio starting June 17. The two athletic luminaries will then move to Lexington, Virginia where their courses will be taught at Washington and Lee. Meanwell will return to Wisconsin next month for a three week session in basketball.

Cleveland—Billy Wallace, Cleveland, outpointed Eddie Anderson, Wyoming.

New York—Jack Berg, England, and Stanislaus Loayza, Chile, draw (10.)

GOOD HURLERS ARE VICTIMS OF "OFF" SEASONS THIS YEAR

Benton, Hadley, Blake, McWeeney Among Those Trained by Jinx

BY BOB MATHERNE

THERE seem to be a number of crack pitchers near the bottom of the pitching averages just now who bear out a statement once made by Waite Hoyt—"You never can tell when a bad year is coming along."

Hoyt, whose major league pitching record is one of rare consistency and efficiency over a number of years, pointed out before the current campaign got under way that any one of a number of pitchers who were counted on to win at least 20 games might prove disappointing.

It wasn't any particular man that he singled out. It seemed to be more a case of what has happened in previous years and what could very easily happen again.

"There's my case," he said. "I've had two good years in a row now. I won 22 games for the Yankees in 1927 and 23 in 1928, but that isn't any reason to believe I will again. Of course, I expect to win plenty, but there's no telling when a bad year is coming along."

In this conversation he pointed out the bad year George Uhle had after winning 27 games in 1926 and what followed from Charley Root of the Cubs in 1928 after he had won 26 games in 1927.

Manager Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds based his pre-season predictions for the spot the Reds would finish on the excellent pitching performances he expected of Pete Donohue.

But with the major league campaign already in June, the Reds won't get any place in particular if Donohue is man to get them there. Donohue was able to win only one game in his first seven for the Reds. And that isn't helping any.

There are three other fellows in the National league whose pitching has been very disappointing. Or at least, their record of games won and lost is entirely different at this stage of the race than the most pessimistic rooster would have expected when the season started.

Sheriff Blake, who last year was one of the big factors in the Cubs staying in the race, is taking his thumpings regularly. He won only two games while losing seven in April and May.

Doug McWeeney is another who has been getting it consistently. It may be explained that McWeeney's club, the Dodgers, haven't been able to help his cause very greatly. But the fact remains that McWeeney had only two victories to his credit when play started in June.

Larry Benton, who in 1928 won 25 games for the Giants and was one of the outstanding pitchers of the year, has fared miserably this season. His club, like McWeeney's, also has contributed by its sorry play. But Benton hasn't pitched as much as .333 ball this season.

The big disappointment in the American league has been the pitching of Irving Hadley with the Senators. Picked before the season opened as the probable ace of the Washington squad, he was unable to ring up one victory until June arrived. His first seven starts were defeats.

GAVUZZI TAKES LEAD IN BUNION DERBY

Calexico, Cal.—Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., who dropped his lead in C. C. Pyle's contest to coast bunion derby to Pete Gavuzzi, be-whiskered Italian from England, expressed determination to dethrone the feet-footed Pete, starting with the 47-mile hike to Jacumba, Cal.

Gavuzzi, apparently taking advantage of an attack of stomach trouble suffered by Salo, succeeded Monday in passing the New Jersey runner and gaining a lead in elapsed time of 55 minutes and 46 seconds. In Tuesday's lap of 53.8 miles from Algodones, Mex., Gavuzzi and Salo finished in a tie for second place with Sam Richman of New York. Giusto Umek of Italy was first.

Jess McMahon Matchmaker For Fugazy-Cole Combine

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—The defection of Jack Dempsey as matchmaker for the Fugazy-Cole forces has not worked any hardships on the combine. If he resulted in the acquisition of one of the outstanding matchmakers in the country lining up with the Fugazy forces. Jess McMahon, who closed the coliseum here with the Al Singer-Lee Kid Roy fight last week, has taken over the reins and will make the matches for Ebbets Field throughout the summer.

Jess immediately stepped into his new role and made a hurried trip to Boston to keep several appointments with managers who are directing big fellows and expects to close two important matches for his opening show on June 18.

That Ebbets field will be the scene of big doings this summer goes without saying, as there is a merry war going on between McMahon and Tom McArdle, who succeeded McMahon at Madison Square Garden. McArdle is being boomed by many as the most successful matchmaker in the history of the garden. McMahon takes exception to this.

"I commenced the policy of running popular priced shows in the garden, and McArdle took up where I left off," said Jess. "It is easy to build a house after the foundation has been laid and the fact that Tom did so well was to be expected after I had labored hard to inaugurate popular prices and convince the public that the shows would be on a par is not better than those given at a higher premium. In line with Fugazy's policy, which is the same as mine, I intend to continue the good work and let the results speak for themselves."

Now that Fugazy is all set with McMahon as a standardbearer Ebbets field will hum with excitement this summer and the open air season in this city promises to be the best since the advent of the Walker law.

ASSOCIATION RACE IS ONE-THIRD OVER; MILLS, K. C. LEAD

Milwaukee Brewers Pull Their Usual Trick of Losing Ball Games

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago (AP)—The National league race is no more hotly contested than the battle for the leadership of the American association. With the season nearly a third gone, none of the place setters have managed to establish anything approaching a commanding lead.

Both Kansas City, leading by a matter of percentage points and Minneapolis, the runner up, ran into difficulty Tuesday. The Blues bowed to Indianapolis, 6 to 3, and Minneapolis took a 9 to 8 beating from Toledo.

Spencer Harris, slugging Miller outfielder, equaled a league record Tuesday when he collected four two-base hits. He also pounded in four runs, but his efforts were not sufficient to overcome the Mud Hen assault on George Dumont and Pate, who were thumped for 12 hits.

Ken Penner outpitched Thomas and Warmouth of Kansas City, to give the Indians their first victory of the series. Penner fielded eight hits, scattered except in the fourth when the Blues scored all their runs, while his opponent was batted for 10. St. Paul and Columbus divided a doubleheader, the Saints grabbing the first game, 3 to 2 and dropping the second, 7 to 5. Johnson held the Saints to four hits in the opener, but a homer and a double by Haas, St. Paul outfielder, batted in the winning runs.

Milwaukee put in another bad day, losing a pair of decisions to Louisville. The Colonels won the opener, 7 to 5 and nipped the Brewers in the second, 8 to 7.

U. S. AMATEUR WINS IN BRITISH GOLF MEET

Sandwich, England (AP)—John Dawson of Chicago, brightest American hope in the British amateur golf tournament in progress here, won his first match Tuesday, beating John D. McCormick, former Irish champion two and one.

McCormick won the first, taking the third hole but losing the next two to Dawson. The American also picked up the eighth with a good tee shot which made him two up. It stood there at the turn, McCormick cutting Dawson's advantage on the twelfth when the American bunkered one. Dawson won the sixteenth and seventeenth.

After an unimpressive start, Dawson's play improved and he held all the way. At only one hole did he need to use his putter three times.

Tweedell beat Harrison in his match, five and four.

LARGE RAILROADS WILL NOT ASK FOR INCREASE IN RATES

Commission Will Be Pressed for Action on Big Consoli-dations, However

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1929

New York — The interstate commerce commission is not going to be asked for any general increase in rates, according to statements today by men high in the executive councils of the large railroads. The commission, however, is going to be strongly pressed for action on the great railroad consolidations.

The first move of this campaign has been made by the Van Sweringen system, affecting its plan for consolidation of roads already owned, and the second is the request from the Baltimore & Ohio for permission to take over 50 per cent of the stock of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh from the Van Sweringens.

Railroad men of experience do not hesitate to express the belief that an increase in freight and passenger rates would mean a loss rather than a gain to the roads. The present rates, they assert, are about all the traffic will bear. To advance them further would result in a drop in freight loadings and passenger traffic which would be disastrous not only to the roads but to business in general.

JUST LOWER COSTS

Having eliminated rate advances as a source of increased revenue, they turn to the other alternative.
If operating revenue cannot be increased, costs must be reduced to secure added net income. The operating and maintenance officials of the great continental trunk lines say that cutting of costs in their departments has gone about as far as it can go at present.

They have already gone too far, they say, to cut costs any more. "When costs are out and slashed recklessly to the limit of safety," one official said to the writer today, "it is usually found that some of the cuts have been too deep. I doubt if costs will be as low next year as this."

Since further cuts cannot be made safely in operation and maintenance, the last alternative to keep up revenue is to make savings by consoli-dations which will supplant two or more men by one in some cases, eliminate a huge amount of clerical and administrative routine, unify policies and permit some of the less lucrative lines of the big roads to be curtailed.

WOULD CONSOLIDATE

It is with that kind of saving in view that the interstate commerce commission is going to be bombarded on all sides from now on. It is known that one of the more newly appointed members of the commission has a plan for trunk line consolidation in the east in preparation, or in fact completed. Many believe this will be put before the commission. It is understood to parallel closely the plan of the Van Swering-en system and it is hoped that out of these two plans and the Baltimore & Ohio proposal some prompt action may be forthcoming.

It is regarded in railroad circles as quite evident from the steps recently taken that the Van Sweringens and the Baltimore and Ohio road are determined to await no longer a joint plan of procedure with the Pennsylvania railroad and the New York Central. It is pointed out that those roads with their own lines and numerous roads under lease to them are not in a position where they need to press for any immediate consolidations. The situation is pressing, however, for the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette, and the other Van Swering-en roads and for the Baltimore and Ohio system. This fact is emphasized by the expiration today of the time limit given the Nickel Plate to divest itself of its Wheeling and Lake Erie holdings.

The Wabash has notified the commission of its intention to file a plan which would involve what is practically a fifth trunk line in eastern territory. These opposed to a fifth trunk line in the east profess to see in this the erection of a dummy stalking horse set up to be knocked down, with possession of the Virginian road the real objective. The Wabash has made vigorous denial that its plan has any collateral purposes or that another road is behind it in the move.

Gets Three No-run, No-hit Games

Statesboro, Ga.—Three no-hit, no-run games in one season—there's something for pitchers to shoot at and it is a record that has earned "Lefty" Wilson, an 18-year-old Geo-gia youth, a trial with the Cleveland Indians.

Wilson will report to the Indians early in June after one of the most phenomenal pitching performances ever made by a youth.

Pitching for the Georgia Normal Institute team this season, Wilson won 11 games—and not a run was scored in these games by his opponents. Three were no-hit, no-run affairs, two of them being against the same team. One game, against the would have been the yield, to these companies had they bought edge-edged would have been the case in the old

BUSINESS IS GOOD

Inquiries at some of the leading business indicate that orders are well ahead of last year in many lines. The construction industry shows some signs of recession but whether it is due to the end of speculative building or whether it is a settling down process after over-building is hard to measure. Certainly high money rates have not affected the opportunity to get first mortgages, as one large trust company executive said today. He would gladly pay many millions of dollars worth of first mortgages on property really worth a 60 per cent loan.

The second mortgage market is of course unfavorable but this is not a personal characteristic nor is it peculiar to Pittsburgh. The department of commerce in Washington is preparing to make a nationwide survey of the second mortgage problem in the hope of encouraging large units of capital to work out some practicable plan that will aid people to build homes on an installment basis or some other feasible method.

with business people here that they have little sympathy with speculations such, though they wish some-way could be found to curb it without keeping the money market jumping up and down so irregularly from day to day. Anybody who could prevent a plan to stabilize the money market in New York would find an appreciative constituency hereabouts. One of the leading brokers told the writer that notwithstanding the widespread criticism of so-called brokers' loans, they were amply protected not only by unusually large margins but by an appraisal of values based upon last year's figures or even those of the year before. In other words, lending was more and more frequently based upon the true rather than overinflated value of stocks. He declared that this had led to much less trading on margins and more outright purchasing, so that he termed the attitude of brokers "conservative" and "selective."

DON'T WANT UNCERTAINTY
While there is the usual tendency to make a fling at any institution in Washington which dares to disturb the even tenor of the speculative world, it is nevertheless significant that the principal objection is to the creation of an atmosphere of uncertainty. There may be something radically wrong with the liaison between Washington and the outside world or between the federal reserve board and member banks. The fact that the rediscount rate was not going to be advanced beyond 3 per cent was old news in Washington last Thursday but it has only now begun to percolate through from the federal reserve banks. Fear of an increase is only today beginning to be dissipated. Certainly the federal reserve

MUSTAPHA KEMAL HUSHES TURKEY REFORM RHAPSODY

Predict Future Reform in Fundamentals of National Religion

Angora, Turkey—(AP)—Mustapha Kemal, heading the discord that broke up the program of Amanul-lah of Afghanistan, has put the soft pedal on Turkey's hitherto riotous rhapsody of reform. The lull probably will be only temporary, although it may be prolonged.

One of the most recent pianis-simo effects came in the mosques.
Before Amanullah was dethroned in Afghanistan, the Ghazi ordered that the sacred writings which hang in the Moslem places of worship, and bear in the old Arabic script, the names of the Prophet and the caliphs with verses from the Koran, should be replaced with inscriptions in the new Latin alphabet.

There was murmuring among the die-hard orthodox but the order was about to be executed when, close on the heels of Amullah's downfall, the decree was rescinded. So the old alphabet of the Koran, Taboo everywhere else in Turkey, still holds good in the Mosques.

But reforms are still hatching in the restless brain of the president of the Turkish republic. Once the nation has had time to swallow and digest the revolutionary changes that have been crowded into its mouth, his powerful determination will prescribe the hardest dose of all—the reform of fundamentals in the national religion.

This reform will go so far as to delete from the Moslem faith such as those of blind submission to a blind Fate, of contentment with little or nothing, and of patience carried to the point of stag-nation. It will go even farther in introducing those principles of Christianity which are believed to have been instrumental in developing the vitality and driving-power of the occident.

Just how this tremendous tampering with an ancient creed is to be effected, and this giant's dream or stirring the sluggish faculties of a whole people into new life through a new faith is to be realized, are things unrevealed. But the important known point is that the policy has had the effect of striking terror to those who think they can puzzle out the future and as for the small speculator, he has tragically taken his losses, sadder if not wiser than ever before. To a large extent the average man blames the federal reserve bank for his losses and coals of fire are heaped on the heads of those in the government who dare to interfere with the game of chance.

Business, however, which one might have expected to be in the doldrums, worrying about 8 per cent for time money, is so much more interested in the volume of sales, even if on smaller margins, that the episode of the federal reserve's battle with the speculative element in Wall-st are only incidentally of interest to executives. They do fear, however, the consequence in the autumn unless easier money conditions, or, to put it more aptly, steadier money conditions can be brought about.

It is stabilization that is hoped for by business even if the general level of borrowing costs is somewhat higher than it used to be, and the banks are faced with so many new problems as a result of the changing conditions that they are far from happy over the pangs of readjustment.
Here as in other cities they are trying to find new ways to attract old depositors.

MIKE M'TIGUE GIVEN A MANAGER'S LICENSE

New York — (AP)—Mike McGuire, former lightweight champion, who announced his retirement at the age of 45 recently, has decided to take a fling at the managerial end of the boxing game. He has received a manager's license from the New York state athletic commission.

It is interesting to find in talking

tions such, though they wish some-
way could be found to curb it without keeping the money market jumping up and down so irregularly from lished report but inner circles are confident it will serve as a basis for Kemal's next great undertaking.

The report advised two lines of action: the giving of a new direction to Moslem belief as described above, and the modernizing, even frankly the Christianizing, of traditional Moslem ritual. This will mean the introduction of pews and instrumental music in the mosques, the scrapping of prayer rugs, and the training of worshippers to keep on their shoes and take off their

These reforms have not yet been executed due to Turkey's present policy of watching storm-tossed Afghanistan, but rug merchants are so sure that they will be put into effect later that they have already begun to curtail the production of prayer rugs.

STOVE HEAT BLISTERS PRECIOUS VIENNA ART

Vienna—(AP)—More than a million dollars worth of masterpieces of art of the Dutch and Italian schools hanging in the Austrian National Museum were badly blistered as a result of the recent long-continued cold-wave.

Stoves were placed in the museum to counter the intense cold and prevent cracks in the paintings. They did their jobs too well, raising expensive blisters on many famous paintings.

Among hundreds of paintings which suffered are Titian's "Madenna of the Gypsies", Rubens' "Assessment of the Virgin", Raphael's "Madonna in Green", Durer's "Emperor Maximilian", and a number of canvases of Peter Breughle.

The motoring world has already endorsed the Marquette as "a great performer!" And no wonder—10 to 60 miles an hour in 31 seconds—over the top of a long 11.6% grade at 25 miles an hour, starting at 5 at the bottom—all in high gear! (The average road grade is 7%). 68 or 70 honest miles in comfort! There isn't a phase of performance where it can't show a clean pair of wheels to every car in its price class.

One word can say most about the Marquette—it's "VALUE." The Marquette with the latest Bodies by Fisher is America's most complete moderate-priced car.
Throughout this great new six—in every feature, from bumper to bumper, from top to tread—there is more quality than seems possible to put into a car at the price.
But it is there, because Buick knows how to build an extra margin of out-and-out goodness into all its products.

Drive the Marquette and you're bound to say, with all the

SEEK BIDS FOR BUILDING WALL ALONG WOLF RIVER

Council and Property Owners Discuss Improvement of River Front

New London—The retaining wall project which came up in a special adjourned meeting on Tuesday evening was held over until a future date. About fifteen interested property owners, in addition to Aldermen and Mayor Weyenberg, were present. A resolution adopted by the aldermen stated that bids would be asked for and specifications secured on the proposed wall, and property owners will be allowed to voice their objections if they think the bids are too high, and if they think they can have the work done at a lower price and still conform to the specifications.

Estimates ranging between $14 and $25 a running foot were advanced as a probable cost.

Millard, Chicago, and one time pastor of the Congregational church of this city, before a combined gathering of Lions and Rotarians here Tuesday at the Elwood hotel.

The speaker presented the ordinary things of life, among which was dust, which he described as being one of the natural elements usually abhorred, and yet, without which, we would have no light and therefore no life. He described the marvelous health giving attributes of rattlesnake venom, when used in the treatment of certain ailments. FRENCH SOLONS BALK AT VOTES FOR WOMEN

Paris —(P)—Woman suffrage, on which parliament is divided, re- ceived another setback in the Sen- ate.

Year after year the Chamber has indicated its approval of giving the ballot to women but the Senate never could bring itself to that modern view.

A seven to five vote defeated the last attempt to bring the matter to an issue, opponents of the women taking refuge in the contention that this is no time to raise such a prob- lem as there are other more pressing ones awaiting solution.

Premier Poincare long has been friendly to some form of woman suf- frage but he never felt impelled to make it a primary matter on which the government would stake its power or prestige.

SHORT WAVE OVERSEAS SIGNALS GAIN VOLUME

Danville, Va. —(P)—Consistent listeners on the short wave bands have observed a marked strengthen- ing of signals from Chelmsford, Eng- land, which relays London programs on 25 meters. This development of a year ago at this season. During mid-winter, reception from pro- nounced strength noted during the past month.

The improved reception appears to be not so much the result of tech- nical improvements at Chelmsford as in atmospheric conditions. The Dutch station PCJJ, at Eindhoven, which is back on the air, also is showing strength.

The British Broadcasting corpora- tion is giving two late phonograph concerts each week, usually Monday and Thursday, beginning at 7 P. M. Eastern time and lasting two hours. KDKA, the Pittsburgh station, re- cently intercepted the short wave signals from PCJJ and gave a brief re-broadcast shortly after re-broad- casting the London program. The reception was considerably marred by static.

ROWS OF RADISHES PROTECT CABBAGE FROM MAGGOT EGGS

Turnips Also Act as trap to Prevent Attack by Pests, Grower Says

BY W. F. WINSEY
A bait or trap in the form of rows of radishes or turnips in and around cabbage beds is being used by Phil Bixby, president of the Appleton Cabbage Growers' Association, to catch the flies that lay cab- bage maggot eggs.

His purpose in setting the bait is to keep the flies busy laying eggs on the ground under the radish leaves long enough to give the cabbage plants a chance to grow beyond the stage in which they may be de- stroyed by maggots. He has used the trap very successfully the past five years. Thus far this spring, the trap is as effective as in the past.

The attack made by maggots on the rows at the east side of his cab- bage beds shows the flies came from the east or from the direction of the barn yard. This has given Mr. Bixby the impression that the flies find shelter in either the manure or straw pile.

Not only does Mr. Bixby trap the maggot flies with rows of thrifty radish also with cabbage beds but also with each fifth row in the cab- bage beds planted with radishes. If the flies suit above the boundary row of radishes, they are apt to be trapped by the inside rows of radishes which in the early stages of the bed are much more conspicuous than the rows of cabbage.

Whatever may be the fate of his bed of late cabbage, plants which are about three inches tall and very thrifty looking, Mr. Bixby has saved his bed of early cabbage with the rows of radish bait. The plants are as thick as they should be in the rows but the radishes under-ground are literally gouged and chewed to pieces by cabbage maggots. The cabbage plants in this bed are large enough to transplant and the trans- planting will begin after the first rain fall if not before.

CABBAGE IS PROTECTED

Although Mr. Bixby complains about a thin stand of plants in his bed of late cabbage, the bed beats any other bed of late cabbage that the writer has inspected this spring. All cabbage beds are suffering, how- ever, from a lack of rain and some show very slow growth. In this bed too the rows of radishes have been devoured by cabbage maggots but only an occasional cabbage plant gives evidence of a maggot working at its roots. About the rows of radishes, the maggot flies are still quite plentiful but very few were found laying eggs near the cabbage plants. If the radish leaves con- tinue to attract the flies, the cab- bage plants may be saved from the maggots until they are ready for transplanting. Mr. Bixby expects to plant 10 acres of cabbage this spring.

The control of cabbage maggots recommended by the Wisconsin Col- lege of Agriculture is quite simple

FARMER PREFERS CLOVER PASTURE

Crop Is Surest, Best and Cheapest, Nick Salm Believes

BY W. F. WINSEY
"Sweet clover is the surest, best and cheapest pasture that a farmer can raise for his cattle and horses and one of the best fertilizers for his soil," said Nick Salm, route 5. Mr. Salm has been pasturing sweet clover the past five years and the more experience he gets with it the better he likes it. Sweet clover has supplied him with more feed per acre than any other pas- ture he has tried and no other pas- ture has beaten it as a producer of milk. It stands the droughts well and supplies cattle with feed after other pastures have dried up or continuously from early in the spring to late in the fall.

As the roots of sweet clover form a network or mass in the soil that reaches down two or three feet, the weight of material below the sur- face is about as great as the feed that appears above ground. Decay- ing, the roots form storage places for water and an excellent fertilizer in unlimited quantities for suc- ceeding crops. Turned under as green manure, sweet clover is one of the best fertilizers of the kind known. The soil on Mr. Salm's farm is now in a great deal better condition of fertility than before he began rais- ing sweet clover.

He has now 24 head of cattle and four horses on a 15 acre field of sweet clover. The animals are wading in the clover up to their knees. It will furnish the animals with quantities of the best kind of palatable feed long after timothy, June grass and wild pastures have dried up and disappeared.

Mr. Salm is trying out 7 acres of Alborea sweet clover for hay this spring. He has a very good stand and growth of this new kind of sweet clover which is finer stemmed and more profusely leaved than the other variety. It has been bred especially for hay. For hay, he has also eight acres of good alfalfa.

and inexpensive. It consists of an application of a solution of corrosive sublimate consisting of one ounce of corrosive sublimate to ten gallons of water. The solution is applied to the rows of cabbage through a faucet or a rubber tube connected with a wooden pail. A stream of the so- lution from the pail is turned di- rectly onto the cabbage plants at the rate of one gallon to a 35 foot row. To prove deadly the solution must come in contact with the eggs of the fly or with the maggots. A second application should be made four or five days after the first to destroy a second hatch. If used in time, the corrosive sublimate treatment is 95 per cent effective.

CLASS OF 276 GET DIPLOMAS AT NOVEL EASTERN COLLEGE

Graduating Group Includes Adults, Foreigners and Workingmen

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1924 by Cons. Press
New York — This city witnessed Monday night the graduation of 276 students from a college of 4,000 with no college yell, no football or other athletic teams, no Greek letter so- cieties—in fact, with none of the under-graduate trimmings which are supposed to make up a college.

It was the annual commencement of Cooper Union, established by Peter Cooper in 1859, to provide for others the means of education which he had lacked in his youth. It is unique among American educa- tional institutions, as a bridge to learning for the foreign-born, for work- ingmen, for adults who missed formal education in their youth, or for any person who wants to satisfy his appetite for knowledge.

Some courses are given and de- grees conferred with high school preparation. On persons entering with a high school diploma, the Union confers degrees of collegiate grade. The quaint old red building housing the university and the lec- ture courses maintained by the People's Institute, has become the forum of what is probably the most thoroughly alive quest for knowledge in the United States.

The People's Institute, conducted by Everett Dean Martin, writer on crowd psychology, is maintained separately from the university, but is a seminary where under gradu- ate mingle with tax-drivers, non workers, policemen, professional men, housewives, waiters and others from every social level, not only in audite discussion but in resounding battles over the same abstruse prob- lems of education.

CONFER DEGREES

lems which engage the colleges. It is probably the nation's most not- able experiment in democratic edu- cation.

POPULAR WITH FOREIGNERS

The foreign-born have surged in eagerly, not only to register in the university but to engage in the forensic tilts which mark the dis- cussions of the institute. The bi- liary of 50,000 volumes is worked harder than any other library in New York. It is not unusual to hear, in the grim old smoke-filled assembly hall, a street cleaner, ar- guing the recapitulation theory with some distinguished biologist and making a pretty fair showing, at that. There are discussions on an- thropology, economics, sociology, politics, science, philosophy and al- most every other conceivable sub- ject, led by some eminent speaker and adroitly coached by Mr. Martin. There is enough intellectual ferment in the place to stock a dozen col- leges.

A member of the faculty of a large eastern university recently said to this correspondent, after visiting one of the Cooper Union ses- sions:

"If I could stir up in my classes one-tenth of the intellectual enthu- siasm which these people display, I could do things. In nearly thirty years of teaching I have never seen undergraduates, anywhere, be so genuinely aroused over abstract discussion as do these workmen and housewives. For real zest in the pursuit of knowledge I do not think it is matched even by any post graduate seminar. One thing I note about it is the wide latitude of discussion, with no one afraid of heretics and with no one having any respect for dogmas. It would make the same spark into American colleges. We would have the answer to all the major prob- lems of education."

CONFER DEGREES

The university in fact, as distin- guished from the institute, confers degrees in electrical, mechanical, civil and chemical engineering and graduates students in architectural drawing, decorative design and in- terior decoration, costume design and illustration, commercial design and free hand drawing. The course is a liberal one.

The curriculum is confined to science and the arts, the humanities being left to the never-ending dis- cussion, research and debate of the people's institute. Both day and night schools are maintained. The institute was established 25 years ago, with Charles Sprague Smith as its first director. The engineering school is amply supplied with labor- atories and equipment in other buildings.

When Peter Cooper, distinguished New York businessman and philan- thropist, established the union, he supplied an endowment with which the huge brick building was erected at a cost of $600,000, a sizeable sum in those days. The endowment was increased by Mr. Cooper's sons, Edwin and William, by Adam S. Hewitt and Mrs. Hewitt, and by Mrs. J. Arthur Caldwell, who do- nated $600,000 to the endowment fund.

Any youth with a shiny new master's degree who wants to take on some structural steel worker on anything from Einstein to Spinoza can get a match at Cooper Union any time he wants it. It is the Madison Square Garden of the ama- teur intellectual athletes of New York.

“Chrysler came into a seemingly crowded motor car market and almost overnight swept its way into unprecedented acceptance as a quality product. + + Why? Because Chrysler brushed aside outworn traditions in engineering, in design, and in performance.

It brought to bear both scientific exactness and artistry. + + That is why Chrysler has taken the country by storm—why it still stands and will long stand alone.”

CHRYSLER'S PLACE IN THE SUN

Prior to five years ago there were no Chrysler motor cars. In five years, Chrysler, from a standing start, has overtaken leading cars of three, four and five times its age.

The spectacle of a newcomer so swiftly becoming a leader can bring the logical mind to but one conclusion: There must be something remarkable, something altogether different and superior, in the cars that Chrysler builds.

There is a definite superiority in Chrysler cars. Hundreds of thousands of motor- ists the world over have learned it.

There is in Chrysler performance, a thrilling sense of endless power, a swift eagerness of life and spirit, a restful feeling of perfect balance and positive safety that cannot be experienced except in a Chrysler car. There is in Chrysler design artistic freshness and modern charm. There is in Chrysler riding qualities a smoothness, a cradled restfulness quite without counterpart.

Drive a Chrysler car today and realize, better than words could ever tell you, why Chrysler has won so glittering a place in the sun—and why Chrysler goes on and on to an ever-increasing popularity and prestige.

Chapter 7
ENTER LUTHER MacNAIR
The French window was bolted and the curtains were drawn, but I saw the dark blur of Lucy's head against the back of my armchair. "Lucy! This is Uncle John!" There was no response at first, then her head inclined toward the window. "I am alone. Let me in." She got up slowly and came to the window. "Has he gone?" Her voice was muffled. "Yes. Open the window." "I won't give them up!" she declared hysterically. "Now, dear," I said briskly, after I entered the room, "we are going to face this thing with clear brains and brave hearts. Where are those keys?" "I won't give them up!" she stormed. "But you must! Deacon knows you have them. You won't help Jerry by keeping them back. And—we've got to have Deacon's cooperation." "But I followed you, Uncle John. I heard what Captain Deacon said to you. I didn't understand it at all—you haven't told me anything, yet—but he thinks Jerry killed his father!" She broke off, shuddering and began to weep again. I took her firmly by the shoulders. "Now see here, Lucy! Crying won't get Jerry out of this mess. You must buck up and show us the kind of stuff you are made of!" And buck up she did, forthwith, drying her eyes on a spider's web of a handkerchief that wouldn't have stopped my ear. "Nothing has happened to Jerry yet and if we keep our heads, nothing will. Give me those keys." They were under the cushion of my chair and after much wriggling we dug them out. "You don't believe Jerry did it, Uncle John?" "Of course not." "Neither you nor Stimson saw Jerry's face or heard his voice." "I didn't," I admitted. "But I saw Jerry's white trousers, the white sweater you gave him last Christmas and the pulled-down Panama hat he bought last week. And these are his keys. Moreover, Hubbard heard Jerry's voice in the library twenty minutes before—" Lucy put her fingers on my lips. "It was somebody else you saw in Jerry's clothes, Uncle John." I had given this possibility some thought, but I knew if I hadn't been very fond of Jerry I wouldn't have wasted my time on it. "That would imply willingness on Jerry's part to let some one else have them," I observed, "and he was wearing them when Hubbard saw him at six o'clock." This opened wider fields of speculation and we fell silent. Suddenly Lucy took my face between her hands; her eyes were aight. "What is it, dear?" "Luther MacNair, the detective, Uncle John! You must get him to take the case for Jerry." "MacNair?" I cried, aghast. "Why not? You told me he is known all over the country. You said he solved nearly every case he undertook." "MacNair has retired," I objected. "He'd probably refuse to help us." "But he mightn't," Lucy pleaded. "We could ask him." Her eloquent eyes pinned me down. How could I tell her of my unholty fear that MacNair might add Jerry to his tragic number of murderers? Indecision held me in torment and then my faith renewed itself and courage illuminated the blackness of my soul. "Very well," I said. "We'll ask him." Lucy lunged her soft arms around my neck and kissed me. "You dear!" she cried. "Come on! We'll go right away!" "My dear child! The man will have been in his bed for hours. Look at the time! Twelve o'clock! Off to bed with you!" She slipped to her feet and stood facing me pityingly, hands on her slender hips. "You'd make a fine detective! Don't you know they always get on the ground at once? If you don't come with me this minute Uncle John, I'll go alone!" That settled it, of course. MacNair's house is a shabby old studio place set in a lovely garden, two blocks below ours. He was having a porch built on to it and we had to pick our way through a jumble of builders' materials. Lucy rang the bell and soon we heard footsteps in the hall. A light snapped on, the door was flung open and Luther MacNair stood before us. He was none too pleased to see us. "Hello, there," he growled, "I was just going to bed." "I am sorry to disturb you at this hour," I said apologetically. "But the reason of our call is rather serious. This is my niece, Lucy. Mr. MacNair, Lucy. We are dreadfully upset about this tragic affair at the Ogden's. The police seem to think Ogden's son, Jerry, had something to do with it." "Indeed?" "Yes. My niece and young Jerry are greatly attached to each other. As a matter of fact, they are engaged—" "Yes, yes!" he interrupted irritably. "But what's it got to do with me?" "Your reputation followed you here, Mr. MacNair," I said humbly. "We came to consult you." "To consult me! I told you and Deacon I was out of this sort of thing!" "To be sure," I stammered. "But I thought—the matter is so urgent—we hoped you might be persuaded—" "Won't you take hold of it for us, Mr. MacNair?" Lucy broke in pleadingly, her dark eyes mare eloquent than I had ever seen them. He seemed to think rapidly for a moment. "Come inside," he said curtly. We followed him into a library and he offered us chairs in front of a fireplace with a red ember or two still glowing in the grate. Paper, sticks and a long soon started a crackling blaze and MacNair drew up a third chair. The reflection from the fire softened his lean, hard face: the swarthy skin, the high cheekbones and slit of a mouth, the deep, penetrating eyes. As I studied the man, neither liking nor disliking him it came over me that we had come to the right place. If any man on earth could put his finger on Ogden's murderer it was Luther MacNair. Will the famous man-hunter fix the crime on Jerry? Lucy's superb confidence stands out against the logical evidence. Continue the story tomorrow.

PRINCE CHANGES HIS MIND--WON'T MARRY MRS. COREY, HE SAYS

But American Says That Wedding Has Been Postponed Until Fall

Paris.—(AP)—The wedding of Prince Louis de Bourbon, cousin of the king of Spain, and Mrs. Mabelle Gillman Corey, divorced wife of the Pittsburgh steel magnate, has been "indefinitely postponed" and in all likelihood never will take place at all.

The erratic prince, who has not communicated with his fiancée for almost a fortnight, sent a letter to one of his Paris friends today saying he had decided he did not want to marry Mrs. Corey and was disinterested with the settlement she had agreed to make upon him.

The prince's letter was written from San Remo, Italy, where his mother, the Infanta Eulalie, King Alfonso's aunt, has bought a villa for him. Mrs. Corey at present is at the chateau, de Villegentis, near Paris.

The Infanta Eulalie, who resides in Paris, told the Associated Press that the wedding has been "indefinitely postponed."

Mrs. Corey's sister, Mrs. Thomas, said rather reluctantly: "The engagement has not been broken but you never can tell what might happen."

From one of Prince Louis' closest friends it was learned Mrs. Corey had settled a fund of $200,000 upon the prince which would give him $1,000 a month "for pocket money—just for cigars and things like that," as Mrs. Corey had agreed to provide a home for them both in addition. It was this settlement which the prince considered inadequate.

SHE SIGNED CONTRACT

Mrs. Corey, it appears, has already signed the marriage contract, but not so the prince.

"One of the Prince's nearest relatives said: 'Why Mrs. Corey wanted to marry him is more than we can understand. She said she had known Louis 20 years and wanted to save him, but apparently he has now decided he wanted no redemption.'"

It appeared today that if the wedding ever did take place it would not be in France, for Prince Louis has been expelled from this country as he was expelled from Spain where his title was taken away from him. On his most recent visit to Belgium he was asked to leave there, it was said, after an eight day stay.

The settlement Mrs. Corey offered her royal fiancé, who would have made her Princess Doriales, was described by his relative as "extremely generous, as Mrs. Corey's fortune was not a great one amounting only to about $5,000,000."

The prince and his mother-in-law represented the queen of Spain at the Chicago exposition in 1932 and only yesterday the committee for the Chicago exposition for 1932 invited her to revisit the mid-west metropolis.

Mrs. Corey, at her villa, still insisted the engagement with Prince Louis had not been broken. She explained the weather was too hot at San Remo for the elderly Infanta Eulalie, who would attend the ceremony. It, therefore, has been postponed until early fall, she said.

RAILROAD JACK COMES BACK AFTER 8 YEARS

Railroad Jack, that hardy perennial who flourishes best on bare roofs and on concrete pavements, blew into Appleton last night and after taking a nap atop of the Y. M. C. A. left again this morning for Sheboygan to attend the state convention of Eagles.

"The convention can't be a success unless I attend," Jack modestly said this morning.

Railroad Jack spent several months here about 8 years ago regaling school children and luncheon clubs with memory tricks and preaching his philosophy of never worrying and sleeping out of doors. For several months he has been in Madison, making his headquarters wherever he hung his hat, which was mostly on roofs and in parks.

Jack expects to come back to Appleton after the Eagles and their conclave and he hopes he will be invited by luncheon clubs and similar organizations to eat at their tables in return for which he will offer entertainment.

52 OIL COMPANIES ARE GUILTY UNDER ANTI-TRUST STATUTE

Violated Sherman Law by Pooling "Oil Cracking" Processes, Court Holds

Chicago.—(AP)—Another anti-trust decision in favor of the United States government was returned yesterday in the United States District court against 52 oil companies, including the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and Indiana, the Texas company, and the gasoline Products company.

Two of the three judges hearing the case, which had been in litigation four years, convicted the companies of violating the Sherman Anti-trust law by pooling their "oil cracking" processes. Judge Evans and George T. Page returned the majority of opinion, while Judge A. B. Anderson dissented.

The government charged in its original suit, filed in 1925, that the companies had conspired to restrain trade and form a monopoly by refusing independent companies the right to use their patented processes. Charles Martindale of Indianapolis, master in chancery, took evidence for two years and, in the end, recommended dismissal of the suit on grounds that the government had established no case.

The government charged that the defendants had pooled their patents and had forced independent companies to pay royalties for their use and to restrict trade operations to certain areas, so as not to compete with the defendant companies.

These various agreements step outside the limits of lawful monopoly, which arose from issuance of the patents, the majority opinion said. "The patent monopoly itself is a property right and agreements in respect thereto must be subject to the same anti-monopoly tests as any other property rights. . . . Insofar as these agreements are licensed agreements, they are not objectionable. To the extent they go beyond licensed agreements they are subject to the inhibitions of the Sherman act."

CONCERN IS FINED FOR BREAKING BLUE SKY LAW

Clippewa Falls.—(AP)—The National Products company was fined $75 and costs amounting to $202.02 for violation of the blue sky law at the opening session of the county court here Tuesday. The company entered a plea of nolle contendere.

Attorneys agreed to combine the case against S. J. Andalman, an identical charge, with that of the National Products company and the former case was therefore dismissed. Mr. Andalman and the products company were operating an automobile tire plant here under a state permit.

Spring Flower Show Is Arousing Great Interest

Widespread interest has been aroused by announcement of dates for the Spring Flower show sponsored by Appleton Flower and Garden society. The show will be held in Armory G on Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23.

No entry fee will be charged for exhibits, which will come in for about 250 pieces. No entry fee or admission fee to see the exhibits. Expenses of the flower show are being defrayed by the American Legion which is sponsoring the exhibit as part of its program to interest Appleton people in beautifying their home surroundings.

While the committee in charge of preparing an entry list tried to include every flower that might bloom in this region at the time of the show it is quite probable that some varieties were missed and in order to make it possible for all varieties to be exhibited special classes will be established at show time if flowers not listed in the published list are submitted for entry.

The peony exhibit will be one of the principal features of the show. A large number of ribbons have been offered and it is believed there will be dozens of exhibitors. Prizes are offered for the most perfect flower of the hollyhock and crown types, for the best red peonies for the best white peonies and the best pink peonies. Prizes also are offered for the best varieties of peonies of all types and all colors and there will be a special prize for the largest display of peonies.

Flowers will be provided by the flower and garden society and flowers will be separated into their classes as they are taken to the armory. Judging of the flowers will start about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the show will be opened until 3 o'clock and will continue until Sunday night except that the armory will be closed Sunday morning to permit rearrangement of the flowers.

A large number of professional florists will take part in the show, but will not compete for prizes.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED IN INDIAN MARRIAGE CASE

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP)—The state supreme court has remanded the case of Maude Lee Mudd, Oklahoman heiress, seeking annulment of her marriage to Earl Gordon of Miami, Okla., to the Federal superior court at Florence, Ariz., with instructions to grant a new trial.

The supreme court previously had reversed a decision of the lower court, which granted annulment to Mrs. Mudd May 5, 1926. Three days after the decision of the lower court she was married to Joe C. Wilson. The decision of the supreme court was based on the contention that the Indian heiress had insufficient residence in Arizona and the case was ordered dismissed, leaving her with two husbands.

The legal problem as to which man is her lawful husband, has never been passed upon.

Mrs. Mudd claims she was not legally married to Gordon in Council Bluffs, Iowa June 8, 1925. The case involves a long record of alleged conspiracy, threats, intimidation, kidnapping and concealment of the girl bride, whose inheritance fortune has made her the center of much litigation.

SUIT AGAINST ACTRESS GETS INDEFINITE DELAY

Los Angeles.—(AP)—Trial of the suit for $32,282 filed against Lillian Gish, screen actress, by Charles H. Duell, New York theatrical manager, was indefinitely continued yesterday when called in superior court.

The delay was asked by counsel for Duell pending the result of his appeal to the supreme court in his other suit for $5,000,000 from the actress alleging breach of contract. He lost this suit in New York and again in the superior courts of Los Angeles.

In the present action Duell states the money is due him for advances made to Miss Gish when she was in Europe in 1924.

HENRY DAY ALMOST MADE SINCLAIR OIL KING OF THE WORLD

Now the "Mystery Man" Will Be His Former Boss' Jail Partner

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
(Copyright, 1939, by NEA Service Inc.)

Washington—Henry Mason Day, mystery man, commercial adventurer extraordinary and veteran of international politics, is going to jail to be with his boss and his closest friend, Harry Sinclair.

A few years ago these two were about to make Sinclair the greatest oil king of the world.

Day's fidelity to Sinclair got him into this jam. His fidelity to Sinclair may make his incarceration easier, since Sinclair will be there, too.

Sinclair perhaps feels differently. He might like it better if Day were outside, watching his interests. Day will be out of jail first, of course. His sentence for jury-tampering runs only four months. Sinclair drew six months for that, on top of his three months for contempt of the senate.

MADE ONLY ONE SLIP

Any story about the Damon Pythias friendship and joint activities of Day and Sinclair must be fragmentary because Day is, as noted, first of all a man of mystery. He has moved mysteriously and effectively over the world, seldom leaving a trace, and he never seems to have missed a trick or made a slip until he had to depend on a group of Burns detectives to shadow and investigate the jury which was trying his pal.

But it was Day who plotted with Sinclair gigantic exploits in the Empire of Oil. It was Day who went quietly into Asiatic and European capitals to arrange and consummate the huge bargains for the oil fields which were almost in Sinclair's grasp when Teapot Dome came crashing down upon their heads.

He looks his part. Tall, straight and swarthy, with coal black hair, eagle-eyed, perfectly poised and seemingly imperturbable; energetic and hard-boiled, he gives an impression almost sinister. But he is a pleasant conversationalist and many who have met him like him as much as they admire him. He has the power of a super-salesman and the personality of his rare breed—that of the soldier-of-fortune concession hunters who have gone indomitably into far places since the war days demonstrated the tremendous future of oil.

DEFEATED OLD OIL INTERESTS

It was Day who went to Moscow with Sinclair, Albert B. Fall, Archie Roosevelt and others to negotiate with the Soviet a concession in the vast Caucasian oil fields. The party was quartered in a former royal palace. It was Day who remained behind until he had clinched the contract, grabbing it from before the very noses of the powerful Standard and Royal Dutch Shell interests which were fighting for it between themselves.

Sinclair was to invest $115,000,000 and raise a $250,000,000 loan for Russia in New York. Sinclair also undertook to obtain American recognition of the Soviets. His close friend Harding was president then; he had paid off the Republican campaign deficit—or was about to—and he had close relations with cabinet members.

Henry Mason Day was playing on the international big time. He went off to the end of the earth to Sakhalin Island, alongside Siberia, and is supposed to have negotiated with Moscow the Sinclair concession for Sakhalin's rich oil deposits, which Japan wanted so badly.

Working in Moscow, Constantinople and Tehran, Day appears to have been the man who landed the immensely valuable concession for the North Persian Oil fields, beating out both the Standard and the Anglo-Persian interests. It has been charged that the murder of Major Robert Imbrie, American vice-consul in Tehran, was plotted by financiers trying to block Sinclair and Day.

Day lived mostly in Europe, but often visited Washington; and it always supposed that he was dealing here in international politics and oil. He was also reported at the Locarno conference. If his true history is ever written it will be a breath-taking tale.

THE RISE OF SINCLAIR

With the Caucasian fields, North Persia and Sakhalin under his belt, and his other properties in Europe, Africa and the United States, Sinclair was beginning to overshadow the Rockefeller and Sir Henri Deterding, the "Napoleon of Petroleum." He had beaten them at their own game.

Then came Teapot Dome and the exposure of Sinclair's dealings with Fall. Day, perhaps, had had little to do with that, but it meant the hopeless smashing of his seemingly gigantic achievements in Russia and Asia—the complete collapse of his dream and Sinclair's.

The three concessions were cancelled almost automatically. Russia

Flyer Sets New Altitude Mark

He has been farther away from Mother Earth than any other living being. Willi Neuenhofen and the giant Junkers plane shown soared 41,795 feet to a new altitude record at Breslau, Germany, recently, breaking the mark of 39,140 feet previously held by Lieut. Apollo Soucek, American navy flyer. Neuenhofen's claim of a new world record has been submitted to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale for confirmation. Soucek has announced he'll try to beat it.

saw to that. Harding was dead.

Fall was in the courts, Sinclair was fighting desperately to keep out of jail and Standard Oil and Charles Evans Hughes, later its attorney, were definitely in the saddle. Gone all hopes of Russian recognition and all hopes of raising a $250,000,000 loan.

EARLY HISTORY VEILED

Day was not involved in that until his hired Burns detectives began monkeying with the jury. He was known here as vice president of the Sinclair Exploration Company, the man who traveled with Sinclair and paid the bills, who always occupied an adjoining suite with Sinclair, with a common sitting room. It was known that he had two quiet and cultured maiden sisters, about the same age, but on one here even yet seems to know where he originally came from or anything of his early history. They tell how once as a Sinclair party was giving up a suite of 15 or 16 rooms, Day personally and carefully searched through every drawer and closet and finally burned up all the blotters!

It developed that Day had been the liaison man between Sinclair and the Burns detectives, who made their reports to Day. Trouble was coming this most unusual man's way in carload lots for the first time.

Almost immediately after his arrest the cables related that Mrs. Day had sued for divorce in Paris. She had been a well known mezzo soprano who had served on Kitchen's British; cruising staff early in the war. The Days had been married in 1910 and lived mostly in Europe after that.

The imperturbability of Henry Day, between one thing and the other, suddenly vanished. For several days he was a badly worried and distracted man, up against a situation he couldn't beat. And feeling more than ever unhappy because if it was jail for him it was jail for Sinclair.

"Harry Sinclair is the salt of the earth," he once told this writer.

WHEN THE LAW STEPPED IN

At about that time a stock of letters concerning Henry Mason Day, many of them from remote places, began to reach the district attorney's office. Most of them probably were from cranks, but the tales they told were wild, weird and woozy.

On the day he was sentenced to four months in jail Day was the most composed man in the courtroom.

"I was associated with a man who tried to protect his interests," he told the court. "What I did was to do what I could to help him. It was the carrying out of loyalty in friendship in association."

"Yes," said the court, "loyalty is a virtue. But, Mr. Day, you showed
